The
Editor's Foreword

THE INCREASED SIZE of the Alumni Department of the March issue brought so much favorable comment that we have decided to continue expanding this interesting feature of The DELTASIG. With our large membership we should have little difficulty in presenting many interesting stories of progress and success on the part of our Alumni. You are invited to contribute material for this department.

THE ATTENTION of all alumni is again called to our Life Membership program. The cost of a Life Membership is exceedingly reasonable, $35, which may be paid in cash, or $5 per month for seven months. All revenue from Life Memberships is placed in our National Endowment Fund; only the income from this fund may be used for operating purposes. Loans may be made to chapters and undergraduate members from this fund, and the fraternity has rendered much assistance to many undergraduate members thereby enabling them to complete their college work. Not a single loan is in default. The nominal cost of a Life Membership is within the means of practically all our members. We would like to have 100 new applications during the summer.

THE CHAPTER EFFICIENCY CONTEST race this year is going to be a close one. Final standings will be published next September, although the contest closes on June 30. It is the responsibility of every chapter to see that all earned points are reported to The Central Office. All chapter officers should check this important matter before their chapter disbands for the summer. Many chapters earn points but fail to report them.

A BUSY SUMMER is ahead for many fraternity workers. Several Committees will be preparing their plans for the coming fraternity year. Several new projects are also being investigated, or started. A new Officers Manual will be published, and it is hoped to make complete revisions of one or two other important fraternity publications. Several new National Committees will be added, and the work of other committees expanded. Regional meetings of chapters are being planned for next year in several different sections of the country. The Ninth Biennial Survey of Universities Offering Organized Courses in Commerce and Business Administration will be published in the fall.—H. G. WRIGHT

JOHN L. MCKEWEN

AGAIN WE come to the close of another college year—the first year of my administration as your Grand President, and the thirty-third year since the establishment of Delta Sigma Pi. In spite of the troubled times in which we are living, I am glad to report the fraternity in excellent condition. Many of our chapters and alumni clubs have materially strengthened their local condition during the year. Our chapters have been slightly larger in size than the previous year, and more new members have been initiated by them this year than the previous year. It looks as though several chapters will turn in a perfect performance of 100,000 points in the 1940 Chapter Efficiency Contest and tie for the coveted first place position. If your chapter is not certain whether all the points you have earned have been reported to the Central Office, by all means check up on this prior to June 30. The responsibility of reporting its points promptly rests with each individual chapter, and not with the fraternity. All chapters should pay serious attention to this contest. It is most important. All active members of every chapter making the Honor Roll of 85,000 points each year, will receive a paid-up national alumni membership card for the first year out of college!

While your graduation may seem to terminate your active participation in fraternity affairs, this should not be the case. I hope it simply means the transfer of your activity from an undergraduate chapter to some alumni club. If you locate in a city where there is an alumni club, by all means affiliate with it; if you locate in a city where there is no alumni club, then endeavor to assist in organizing one. You will find through your alumni club associations many members of similar interests and aspirations in life. You will enjoy meeting them, and you can all be of much assistance to each other in many ways. Membership in Delta Sigma Pi is for one's lifetime, and not just for a few undergraduate years. Many intimate friendships result from acquaintances made at Delta Sigma Pi gatherings.

Members of the Grand Council have been able to visit many chapters during the past year, and we have a comprehensive travel schedule planned for the coming year. Many members have visited our Central Office in Chicago. By all means visit this office whenever your travels take you to Chicago. You will be surprised at the volume of activity there, and the many services it renders to our alumni all over the world. During the past year I have been able to greatly expand the personnel of our national committees; I am also planning to add several new and important committees, and I would welcome volunteers for service on these committees. I want to have as many active alumni workers in the fraternity as possible. How about YOUR serving in some capacity?

It has also been gratifying to observe the increasing interest and activity in our Alumni Placing Service. This is without doubt the most important service we render our members. However, its effectiveness is definitely limited to the extent of co-operation we receive from our many members in reporting business openings to our local placing committees. It is impossible to arrange introductions for members seeking new or better business connections, unless the co-operation is forthcoming from all members in that territory. Our Committees cannot perform miracles. It is therefore hoped that our members will bear this in mind, and report promptly to the local committee, every position or rumor of a position that comes to your attention. More times than not our Committees can arrange for several qualified persons to have prompt interviews for these openings. You render a service both to the firm having the opening, and to the member seeking a new connection.

Several chapters and alumni clubs have been able to publish membership directories during the past year. These are most valuable. I would like to see every chapter publish a membership directory at least every two or three years. As chapter projects these directories are fairly easily published and prove of great interest and service to all. I hope we will be able to publish a National Membership Directory within the coming year or two. This is a huge undertaking, however, much larger than the average member realizes.

In behalf of Delta Sigma Pi I wish to extend best wishes to all of you who are joining the ranks of alumni next month. Your fraternity will be happy with you in your future business success. We trust you will continue your active fraternity membership throughout your entire life.

Crisis in Pennsylvania

WE HAVE BEEN HEARING from many sources that Pennsylvania faces a crisis and I think that we will all agree in that statement. This crisis is not new but is now approaching an acute stage where we people of Pennsylvania must meet it and solve the problem or find that we are in a situation as serious as any we have ever faced. It is as though we had been descending the side of a steep ravine and have now reached an area from which we may move in two ways. The easy way is to keep further down the ravine, where it grows darker each step we progress and at the bottom of which no man knows what exists. The harder way lies upward, towards the light and, where we know if we conquer the heights, we shall find happiness and comfort and satisfaction for all.

We Pennsylvanians are not afraid of hard work or serious effort. We shall slip and fall, have our bumps and bruises as we climb upwards, but we shall win success in proportion to our effort. It is possible that in solving our own problems we may lead America to new heights of economic achievement.

May I quote from a recent leaflet sent out by one of Pennsylvania's leading colleges:

"Our freedom is apparent on every hand—in the church, where we have free worship; in the state, the product of our self government; and in our schools and colleges, repositories still of intellectual freedom. Each of these institutions is essential to our full liberties. It is not by chance that when liberty was suppressed in Russia and Germany the church was persecuted and universities languished. Germany closed all but five of her universities this autumn. Even Heidelberg is no more.

"In a democracy the individual is of primary importance; it follows then that to be a strong nation we must develop men and women who value their individuality. Most important of all the responsibility for growth must be squarely upon the individual himself. Education, like liberty, cannot be inherited but must ever be won anew. Each must learn his own lesson from the past and apply it to the present and the future, and no one can do it for him—no Hitler, no Stalin, no Mussolini."

What is this crisis which we face and how do we plan to conquer it?

It is a crisis of unemployment—about one million people out of work among our population of 10½ millions. A crisis of relief financing—122 millions spent—perhaps 100 million more to be raised by new taxes in 1940 unless we are successful. A crisis in the American principles of self reliance and self help. A crisis in responsibility—the responsibility of all of us to join together and solve this problem—the responsibility of business and government to come together and do this job which is so long overdue and which must be done.

We can do it if we will be realistic and practical. The job is both sound and expedient. Expedient because the need for quickness is so great—sound because the methods to be used will develop the best and most useful approaches. Notice please that we plan to mix intelligent publicity with sound engineering and that our Executive Director, Mr. William A. Hemphill, is a skilled management engineer loaned for the period of the campaign by the great engineering firm of Day & Zimmerman, Inc.

By Walter D. Fuller

Honorary Member-at-Large of Delta Sigma Pi

All of you have read our purposes but let me read them to you again.

The plan is a non-partisan State-wide effort by business leaders with the co-operation of the State Government, labor and other organized groups to do whatever possible to:

1. Stimulate re-employment and create new jobs for idle men and women in Pennsylvania.
2. Organize complete State-wide local consideration of the relief problem by local citizens, cultivate local responsibility and local knowledge of the situation, encourage self-reliance and self-help, and search seriously and analytically for a practical and humane solution of unemployment.

These are the first and primary considerations but growing out of them and of vital interest to every tax conscious citizen are these objectives:

- a. To reduce the State relief load while maintaining the principles of the Golden Rule.
- b. To reduce or eliminate the possibility of additional tax increases on the people of Pennsylvania.
- c. To bring nearer the period when tax reduction may be possible because such reduction will lead to industrial expansion, to more re-employment and to a generally healthier economic situation.

You know of our needs. There are 230,568 cases on relief and 147,000 persons on W.P.A. No one knows exactly how many people are out of work in Pennsylvania but there are thousands more than the figures just quoted—thousands of persons courageously holding their heads up and their chins out and preserving their heritage of American independence by staying off the public assistance rolls while desperately seeking work.

Tax monies allocated for relief will not last beyond April at the rate we are now spending. If no change takes place in this situation you know the answer as well as I do.

All the evidence from a hundred angles sums up to say we must make jobs in private employment. Governmental jobs at best only transfer the cost from one tax to another. No one knows better than I do that you cannot make jobs by wishing them. Jobs can only be made as we find job opportunities and that is the work cut out for us to do. It is easy to find objections, easy to say "it can't be done," but we must resolutely turn our faces from such thinking. This job can and must be done, my friends. We are in a three-months campaign. I do not expect that we can wipe out all unemployment in Pennsylvania in that time—merely that we can make a large dent in it and set up a pattern which, followed thereafter, will modify the rigors, disappointments and miseries of future unemployment in our state. As I have said, perhaps we shall build a pattern which can be followed by others, but that is not our immediate objective. What we plan is an essentially practical breakdown of the problem into counties and then into local communities, with a responsibility for areas small enough so that the work may be attacked upon intimate and personal ground. Local knowledge of local unemployed persons and of the local employment situation is essential and the local committee areas will be designed with this necessity first in mind. The Director and the field staff, together with the help and advice of county committees, of the members of the Advisory Council, of the Vice Chairmen Committees, and of the associated organizations will lend their support.

The Director will be in charge of the local committees and he will be free to call upon the County Committees and the associated groups for help when it is needed. After organization is under way, the Chairman will concern himself mostly with publicity, the speakers' bureau and with the general co-operation and smooth running of the campaign.

Many persons have asked me what we will do when March 1 arrives. I do not know—that will be for Governor James to decide—but I hope our results will be such that the organization can largely be laid aside and that we voluntary workers may secure the rest which I am sure all of us will be entitled to.

May I say that this is a voluntary effort so far as time is concerned upon the part of all part-time workers. Mr. Hemphill is being loaned by Day & Zimmerman, who are also volunteering the part time services of their Vice-President, Mr. Charles Penrose. For these services to all citizens of Pennsylvania they receive no recompense other than the exact amount of Mr. Hemphill's salary. Mr. Hemphill incidentally is upon the state payroll at $1.00 a year and the amount of his regular salary during this period will be met from contributions to be secured by our Finance Committee. For the time being, this expense is being guaranteed by one of our great associations as an evidence of their desire to help in this necessary movement.

Field men and publicity men will be paid by the proper state departments. The expenses of the committee's Harrisburg offices will also be paid by the state.

I shall not go into the detail of the set up of county committees, local committees or of our Publicity Department. You have already received brief instructions in this regard.

There has not been time to organize experimental committees and thus for me to outline this work, except in the most general terms, would be quite valueless.

We must ask you gentlemen of the County Committees to do your best as you see it. There will be advantages in having 67 different County Committees, each in their own way a laboratory, finding their own best answer. Mr. Hemphill, the field men, your Chairmen and the associated organizations will lend any possible help but at first you necessarily are going to be pretty much on your own. Soon I hope you will get great help from the central organization but we cannot wait for that because time is the essence of success in this effort and the organization of Local Committees must go forward at once. We must also make this a popular movement with everyone in the state. Unless the man "on the street" is back of it we will miss our full success. That means the enlistment of all possible local assistance. My very sketchy suggestion of procedure for County Committees is that you take a map of your county and with the help of your County Employment Offices, relief officials and such other persons as may have knowledge of the situation, you attempt to spot in the load of unemployment in your county. From this information you set up your local areas, which may vary from a whole town in some sections to one election district or less in a great city.

You then face the selection of the Local Committees and here the advice of local associations and interested citizens can be most helpful. Having appointed these committees, you notify Mr. Hemphill of the names and addresses and he takes over. You will naturally wish to keep in touch with the Local Committee and help where you can.

In all cases in which you may be in doubt I urge that you proceed upon your own initiative rather than to delay your action, although Mr. Hemphill and I will be as prompt as possible. It is hardly necessary for me to point out that in cases like this where all work is voluntary that diplomacy in difficult situations is very necessary.

After the Local Committees are organized, the County Committee will be principally active in helping to create job opportunities, in correlating the work between localities, etc., all of which will come later.

It is our purpose to immediately enlist the support of such elected officers as mayors, burgesses and township and county commissioners, etc. We shall recruit as large a group of affiliated associations as possible and I can report that I have already heard favorably from:

Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce
Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce
Pennsylvania Economy League
Narberth Business Council
Lebanon Chamber of Commerce
York Chamber of Commerce
Manufacturers Association of Erie
Pennsylvania Retailers Association
Pennsylvania Hotels Association

More associations are indicating their co-operation daily and no association has done other than to volunteer full assistance.

The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars have signified their entire co-operation and have been helpful to a great degree already. We shall lean heavily upon the loyal and enthusiastic members of these great organizations during the coming months.

Already the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs are asking what they can do and we shall give them plenty of work in the near future.

Certain church leaders are anxious to assist and I have no doubt that we shall have 100 per cent co-operation from our religious leaders. Representatives of many women's clubs and of a large number of women's consumer groups have indicated their wish to co-operate. We expect to ask the help of various civic associations, the fraternal societies, automobile clubs, garden clubs and various other associations and clubs of Pennsylvania.

Our Vice-Chairmen will help the Chairman and will be the leaders of certain important staff activities. There will be committees for the stimulation of Pennsylvania employment on the part of employers with Pennsylvania plants but who are domiciled in other states and have transferred much of

Pre-War Germany, 1939

By Arthur Widtmann

Zeta Chapter, Northwestern University

A FELLOW CAN NEVER get to really appreciate this country until he gets away from it for a while. I learned this little fact by spending two months in Germany this summer. My intentions were to stay there for a greater length of time than I did, but rumors of the impending war caused me to cut short my travels. When I arrived in Germany on June 18, I didn't know what to expect. Folks over here said that I shouldn't let the "Nazis get me"; others gave me the very sane advice of keeping my ears open and my mouth shut. In spite of an outward appearance of bravado, it was with an inner feeling of apprehension that I stepped off the boat.

My first few weeks in the country were spent in traveling from one city to another, visiting churches, museums, old castles, Bier Stubes and Rathskellers. During this early portion of my stay in Germany I traveled by train from one spot to the other, having the opportunity to see what the German conception of lack of Lebens Raum (room to live) really meant. Traveling on "still-out-of-date" trains, I was able to see anywhere from five to fifteen little villages within a period of five minutes. I learned to understand the meaning of the word "crowded."

Uniforms were everywhere; it seemed that practically every person owned a uniform. However, this is probably an exaggeration, but there was a uniform for every age except for the very young who are still in their diapers. The very young boys are urged to join the H.J. (Hitler Jugend); the girls should belong to the B.D.M. (Bund Deutsche Mädel). The men, both young and in their middle ages, usually join the S.A. (Sturm Abteilung), or as we know them, the brown shirts. The S.S. (Schutz Staffel) is the aristocracy of the uniformed legions. They are the boys in the black uniforms. One can join the S.S. only after meeting the rigid qualifications. Becoming accustomed to this overabundance of uniforms presented a slight difficulty, but the sight soon became so familiar that after my return to America, I felt something was lacking until I saw the American Legion parade in Chicago.

There is a great amount of public building going on in Germany. I saw play-fields, stadia, recreation centers and the like going up all over the country. In particular I noticed the Reichs Auto Bahn, Germany's net work of roads. They are beautiful four-lane highways that stretch out for hundreds of miles leading in all directions. We in America dub them Military Roads, but they are something that the country needs.

It was in Sudetenland, during the first two weeks in July, that I got my first glimpse of what really was going on in that section of the country. At that time the farmers were having difficulty in retaining their hired help. The farm hands believe in the mobility of labor; they think that if they can get higher wages by doing some other type of work, they will leave the farms in preference to another type of work. An acute labor shortage has occurred in Sudetenland and meetings are frequently being called. They are attended by the farm hands and farmers.

On July 10, I attended one such meeting and managed to record the high spots of this gathering in a little note book that I carried about in my vest pocket at all times. The meeting was held in the local Gast Haus. The farmers sat at a long table, each with a glass of beer. The laborers as is fitting to their caste, sat rather humbly in the back part of the room.

The local labor leader began the proceedings by asking questions: "Has everyone got this book? If not, get it from your employer. Does everyone understand this book? If so, one more question. Can anybody complain about the wages? Is anyone dissatisfied with what he gets?"

There was no reply from the group of farmhands which consisted of elderly men and many young boys and girls, who would be of high school age were they in this country. After getting these questions off his chest the leader began his speech, the high spots of which I have attempted to record here.

"We are not living in normal times; we are on a crisis basis. It is no impossibility that war could break out today or tomorrow. We are having much trouble with Poland—the Danzig question must be settled. We cannot tolerate anyone leaving his position on a farm with a groundless reason. All the rules governing wages are in this book. We will not tolerate the leaving of a position because of wages.

"For many weeks in the past England and France have been trying to come to an agreement (with Russia), but no settlement has been reached. Today Germany is much too powerful (for these nations). It is not only strong militarily, but it is also well organized in other ways. These countries know that the folk is controlled.

"If war comes—you will not be asked what you want—you will obey!

"Farmers get only about 25 per cent or 35 per cent more than before (before Germany took over Sudetenland from Czechoslovakia); the laborer gets over 50 per cent more than formerly. If the worker gets too much, the farmer will be in debt. . . .

"If you are not satisfied, try to run away; you will be taken care of. If you run away from here, you will suffer the consequences. We cannot all work in the factories or on the roads; the work on the farm is also exceedingly important. Without farm work we cannot exist. The harvest must come in without question."

About the time that I attended this labor meeting, I began to hear rumors of the impending trouble. On July 13, I happened to talk to one of Germany's lesser known authors, a man rather high in the National Socialist Party. He said, "It is rumored that General Cirovy is the go-between for Herr Hitler and Stalin. Perhaps there is something in the air that may surprise the entire world."

Whenever I talked to people after this time I heard them express concern over what would happen "after the harvest." Most of the people with whom I talked were confident that Germany would have her way, and that everything would be solved peacefully.

In Karlsbad one of the local hotel owners went so far as to say that within three years, England would have the same status that Czechoslovakia has at present—a protectorate of Germany.

It was between August 1 and August 6 while taking a motorcycle trip through the Austrian Alps and around the Gau Ostmark, that I first noticed the tightening of Germany's economic belt. My uncle, who was my companion at this time, and I had a great deal of trouble buying gasoline. We passed gas station after gas station that had the Ausverkauft sign up. At one time we practically had to beg for one liter of gasoline so that we could travel farther. We managed to get to our destination with only a very narrow margin. When we arrived in Salzburg on August 5 the business men of the vicinity already had orders to turn in their trucks for "Military Maneuvers."

After arriving in Vienna a few days later, I decided to have a chat with the American Consul. He said that he couldn't give me official information about the possibility of trouble breaking out, but that I ought to make my reservations for the return trip. When I told him that I already had my reservations on a Hamburg-American liner, he advised me to start thinking about a way to get out of the country. He very politely informed me that I would be much better off if I were traveling on a U.S. liner.

Later I went to a travel bureau and inquired about making a reservation on a United States ship but was informed that all passages were booked until well into October.

While on the train from Vienna to Munich three trains loaded with busses, trucks, and troops coming from the direction of Munich passed. I happened to mention the fact to a young soldier who happened to be a fellow passenger on the train by saying, "I suppose they are going on their way to military maneuvers." He replied by saying, "Yes, they are going into the Protectorate. They will have a much better opportunity to practice there than they could have in the place from which they are coming."

their work and employment elsewhere; on the development of Pennsylvania industry with duties which the name indicates; on retail buying whose duties will be obvious; on religious co-operation, on women's co-operation, on co-operation of State Trade Associations and probably on other activities.

In addition to these committees Mr. Edward B. Hopkinson of Philadelphia has agreed to act as Chairman of the Finance Committee and other members will be announced in a few days. I am asking this committee to raise the modest sum of $10,000. This money will be used to reimburse Day & Zimmerman for the salary of the Executive Director and will provide money for certain other necessary expenses.

I am happy to report that Dr. Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania has accepted the chairmanship of the Committee on Educational Co-operation and other members will be appointed in the near future.

The report committee will be headed by Dr. Leonard P. Fox of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, as chairman and other appointments will be made in the near future.

Many methods will be devised and used to further our efforts. These will consist of an active and continued renovating campaign with the tie in of the lumber, paint, hardware and general building trades. The experiences of many communities with plans which have been tried and found successful will be extended where they will do the most good.

A speakers' bureau will be recruited as soon as possible and made available for all sorts of talks from a few minutes movie or spot radio address to the more formal speeches of various meetings.

That about completes the story, my friends, but I must conclude by pointing out again the great opportunity which is before us. The Governor of our state has asked us businessmen to help him on this essentially business job of making job opportunities for Pennsylvania men and women and thus indirectly to help every citizen and every business of our state to greater activity and lowered taxation.

That is indeed a great opportunity and I am glad to say to him as your spokesman that we shall do our best.

Brother Fuller was chairman of the State Job Mobilization Committee of Pennsylvania and this address was delivered before the Governor's Job Mobilization Conference held recently in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Luckily, I didn't press the question any further.

The next day I had dinner with an American newspaper man in Munich. During our conversation I happened to tell him that I talked to our Consular representative in Vienna. I was then asked if the consul told me about the trouble he was having be-

Frank Phillips Initiated as Honorary Member

FRANK PHILLIPS, Founder of and present Chairman of the Board of the well-known Phillips Petroleum Company, and one of the best known oil men in the entire country, was initiated as an Honorary Member of Delta Sigma Pi on April 4, 1940 by our Oklahoma chapter, at a special ceremony held in the Woodruff Room of the Student Memorial Union Building on the Oklahoma campus. Alumni from all parts of the state were present as were Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright of Chicago, and Grand Council Member Kenneth B. White of Dallas, Texas. The formal banquet following Mr. Phillips' initiation was attended by many members of the fraternity, and many guests, totaling almost 100.

Joel Ketonen, Head Master of our Oklahoma chapter, served as toastmaster. Speakers included Dr. Arthur B. Adams, Dean of the College of Business Administration, Dr. E. E. Dale of the department of history, a close friend of Mr. Phillips, Dr. M. L. Wardell, Assistant to the President of the University of Oklahoma, who represented the President who was out of town, Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright, and Grand Council Member Kenneth B. White. Mr. Phillips responded with a very interesting talk covering his experiences in the oil business.

Frank Phillips was born at Scotia, Nebraska on November 23, 1873. His parents had only moved to Nebraska the year before and Indians were still roaming the prairies there. Driven out of Nebraska by the famous grasshopper scourge of 1874, the Phillips family moved to a farm near Creston, Iowa, and when he could be spared from his varied farm duties, young Phillips trudged the muddy roads to the little country schoolhouse. At the age of 14 he decided to seek a job in Creston, and started to work in a barber shop. Ten years later his energy, initiative, and organizing ability, made him the owner of all the barber shops in Creston. He then associated himself with the town banker and started selling bonds.

Soon oil was discovered in Oklahoma near Bartlesville. On foot, by saddle horses, in wagons, and by train came streams of adventurers, roustabouts, and businessmen with an eye to expanding frontiers.

Among the latter was Frank Phillips investigating new business possibilities. He was quick to sense the business possibilities for a bank of his own and at the age of 29 in 1903, he organized and became President of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company in Bartlesville, Oklahoma. Shortly thereafter he became interested in the oil business, although it was not until 1917 that he organized the Phillips Petroleum Company. He served as its President until 1938 when he became Chairman of the Board. Starting with only a score of employees, the Phillips Petroleum Company now has assets of $226,000,000, and more than 30,000 employees, jobbers, and dealers; 41,000 stockholders. The "Phillips 66" trademark is famous all over the country as the company operates in more than 30 states. It is a major producer of crude oil and gas, the world's largest producer of natural gasoline, and the world's largest producer of liquefied gas.

When Mr. Phillips celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday last fall, a civic holiday was declared in Bartlesville, Oklahoma in his honor and 35,000 people came to Bartlesville by special trains, planes, buses, and automobiles from all sections of the country to honor him, including more than 8,500 of his employees. He has been a most generous employer. He has a 4,000 acre estate outside of Bartlesville known as Woolaroc and which is the showplace of the state of Oklahoma. In addition to his guest house he has a large museum there with a collection of Indian and western historical objects which is visited by thousands of people annually. Mr. Phillips has long been interested in the Boy Scout movement and has been one of the most liberal contributors to this worthy cause in the country.

He is Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, a Director of the First National Bank of St. Louis, Missouri, the Standard Insurance Company of New York, the Standard Surety and Casualty Company of New York, and the American Petroleum Institute. While in New York he resides at the Ambassador Hotel. He belongs to the Recess Club, Bankers Club, Metropolitan

THE WORLD OVER

Birmingham

ALTHOUGH THE BIRMINGHAM Alumni Club is only a little over two years old, it has accomplished many things. Back in January of this year when Tom Nash was elected president, Carl Moseley, vice-president, Bill Persons, secretary and treasurer, and Foy Laseter, corresponding secretary, these boys decided to do something about the ambition of the group here to have a Lodge. Tom Nash went out and arranged for the use of a 40 acre tract of land on top of picturesque Shades Mountain, only 12 miles out from the center of Birmingham. Bill Persons started thumbing through blue prints and getting information from engineers as to cost and types of construction. As a means of shortening the tale of the labor of these two and of all the members of the Deltasig Lodge, as this goes to press, the joists are in and the Lodge is well on its way. The next time we hope to be seeing you from this page with a picture of our completed Lodge.

While preparations for the construction of the Lodge have kept everyone busy, the weekly luncheons and monthly banquets have been as successful as ever as a means of bringing the club members together. At the monthly meeting in March, Mr. W. H. Keck, salesman for the Birmingham Branch of Burroughs Adding Machine Company, gave a talk on "General Bank Accounting" which was of considerable interest to all members attending. Carl Moseley has promised that a number of interesting speakers will talk at the monthly meetings of the club.

Committee chairmen appointed by the president are Ed Rast, membership, and Virgil Hampton, entertainment.—CARSTEN SAHLMANN

Denver

THE DENVER ALUMNI CLUB is rapidly rounding out their activities since the reorganization which took place at the beginning of the year. Our dinner which was held at the Lancaster Hotel on March 14 was attended by 30 of the members, a substantial increase over the previous month. A few of the brothers made talks on how to increase our membership and also how to keep the interest of the alumni club going to further substantiate the popularity of such a club in Denver. One of the plans of the alumni club here is to have one outstanding member each month give a talk on his line of work and the advancements that he feels will come from this profession in the future years. We feel that this type of a program will appeal not only to the younger members of the alumni club but will help to stimulate a better feeling among the older fellows and in the end we will have one of the country's outstanding alumni clubs.

Many of the alumni enjoyed themselves at the winter pledge dance which the active chapter held on March 16 at the Olin Hotel. We really can say that our active chapter in Denver is making progress and we have pledged ourselves to give them all the assistance that they may need in helping to put them at the top among the fraternities. We are hoping that sometime in the spring that we can hold a joint alumni and active dinner so that the new members of the chapter can have a chance to better acquaint themselves with the older alumni members.

I might say here that the future of the club is very bright and we expect to increase our membership more as each month rolls by.—GLENN R. DAVIS

Milwaukee

THE TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY BANQUET of the founding of Delta Chapter was observed with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday, May 4, at the Westmoor Country Club with 109 members present. Elmer Behrens was chairman of the committee in charge, Bill McGavik served as toastmaster, and the speakers included Charles Cobeen, Delta 1, and Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright of Chicago. This is one of the finest events in the entire fraternity and is looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation by the Delta alumni. The Milwaukee alumni have also been particularly active in the past few months. On March 17 many alumni celebrated at their annual St. Pat's Dance. At the March meeting the assistant comptroller of the Boston Store spoke. At the April meeting we had motion pictures of the activity of the Coast Guard. As the year draws to a close the alumni are looking forward to attending the spring formal dinner-dance of Delta Chapter to be held in June.—ERNEST JOHANNES

New York

THE NEW YORK ALUMNI CLUB has "stepped up production" this year and the growth of its membership roster is beginning to reflect results which will bring to an end another fiscal year. The April 12 meeting was purely professional. Though a spring snowstorm attempted to ruin the attendance, a sizeable group of "die-hards" was on hand to hear Bill Schulze, who helped the 13th Grand Chapter Congress wind up its schedule at the New York World's Fair. He told of the plans for the 1940 Fair. Bill is again Director of Banking at the Fair and talked on the mechanics of operation of that huge enterprise and the many changes in policy aiming at even greater achievement than that of last year.

Credit is due, for a real job well done, to "Colonel" W. E. Craig and his committee for the first edition of the New York Alumni Club Directory. Its detail and completeness indicate much effort and reveal how many Delta Sigma Pi chapters are represented in our midst. Any Deltasig or alumni club desiring a copy for reference purposes is invited to write the secretary.

Sad news was made known to us recently of the passing of Brother Charles Schimko, Alpha '15. He was at the time of his death vice-president of the Provident Loan Society of New York. We will miss him in our group.

Lorin Nelson, our secretary, is making a rapid recovery following a sudden appendectomy at the Broad Street Hospital and the club wishes him well. His return to alumni activity is awaited as he always works hard in carrying out our program.

Monday, May 27, has been scheduled for our "Annual Round-Up Dinner" at the Downtown Athletic Club. This is the one event that always brings out the Deltasigs. Note it on your calendars now and be on hand to end another chapter in the club's history. Details will be forwarded in the regular notices and we invite any visiting brother to join us on that occasion—it always is a real Round-Up and in its serious moments elections for the next year will be announced. The graduating active seniors will be the guests of the alumni club and a ring will be given to the outstanding active of the year.

Lawrence W. Zimmer, Director of the New York University Bureau of Employment and Vice-Chairman of the National Committee on Alumni Placing Service of Delta Sigma Pi, is the co-author with Dean Kilduff of the N.Y.U. School of Commerce of a booklet being distributed to graduating seniors of the school entitled "Suggestions for Your Campaign for a Job." Larry certainly did include some good practical suggestions. Brother Zimmer has been receiving a good deal of excellent publicity in the New York newspapers as an expert in employment problems of the college graduates. We are very proud of him.—DAN KILIAN

Chicago

THE FEATURE of our April 16 meeting was a round table discussion of present regulatory legislation. Randolph Vinson introduced the two main speakers for the evening, Philip Brennan and Glen Grawols, both Deltasigs. Phil Brennan took the stand that present regulatory legislation as a whole is beneficial to this country. Among the highlights of his presentation was his argument in favor of the Securities and Exchange Commission. He pointed out that one of the big achievements of the S.E.C. was the elimination of pool operations in the stock market and the sucker lists used in their connection. An explanation of how the establishment of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation restored confidence in our banking system was also very interesting. The advantages of the general public of the Federal Housing Administration, the A.A.A., Social Security, Wage and Hour Laws, the former N.R.A., also were discussed in a highly interesting manner by Brother Brennan.

Brother Grawols presented the opposite view and started out by mentioning that in a great many instances the advantages gained from this legislation are too few when compared to the costs of obtaining them and added that we are getting direction and not legislation. He then cited how his firm may be forced to give up their pension plan because of present regulatory legislation, a thing that would very seriously work to the disadvantage of employees. Glen then elaborated on a discussion as to how this legislation retards recovery and investment in new enterprises because no definite trend and interpretation can be established. He then cited a case in which it was held that because a manufacturer sent his bills out of the state in which he was doing business, he was engaged in interstate commerce.

During the ensuing discussion one of the most interesting arguments against regulatory legislation was made by Bob Study in which he explained to us how the unemployment insurance laws work against his laundry business. He told us that he can't discharge an employee even for stealing without having to contribute to this employee's benefit payments.

This meeting was the most interesting one of the whole season since it created widespread interest and discussion. I think meetings of this kind should be encouraged among the alumni clubs since they invite the active participation of those present and go a long way in creating a friendlier atmosphere.—FRED SCHRAFFENBERGER

Philadelphia

THE PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI CLUB held their regular business meeting on Thursday, February 8 at the Beta Nu chapter house at which time the following brothers were elected to office for the ensuing year: President, Norman H. Smith; Vice-president, Fellman A. Fish; Secretary, James A. Perdakis; Treasurer, Stephen J. Kayser. The tentative program of activities for the year was thoroughly discussed and from all indications should prove both interesting and educational. All meetings will include speakers of national repute and the subject matter is to be varied in order that a cross-section of the many fields of business may be covered. The formal presentation of the scroll wherein is inscribed the names of all members who attended the 25th anniversary banquet commemorating the founding on January 23, 1915 of Tau Delta Phi fraternity, later known as Tau Delta Kappa fraternity, and now known as the Beta Nu Chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, was made to Head Master Kenneth E. Voorhies. This handsome silver scroll now adorns the wall of the active chapter room and will serve as an everlasting memory to those who attended.

It is with heartfelt thanks that we can inform all brothers that Frederick W. Floyd is on the road to recovery. Fred is well known to a great many Deltasigs throughout the United States and was elected as a member of the Grand Council of Delta Sigma Pi while lying in the hospital during the Thirteenth Grand Chapter Congress. It was through his untiring efforts that gave Delta Sigma Pi its finest Congress and which will present a real goal to future contenders. His spirit and feelings for the fraternity, even while stricken, cannot be better expressed than to reproduce some excerpts from a recent letter received from Warm Springs:

"You know darn well that I am tickled to hear such good things about the chapter. I hope that this year they will really go to town. If they do, it will be as we planned it when arranging the Congress.

"The hardest job we have to do here is the job of waiting. Patience is a virtue that we polios just have to try and practice.

"Asked yesterday to be put on a diet as I am now almost ten pounds over the weight that I have carried for some fifteen years. Feel fine and am up in my chair most all the time.

"I am slowly getting some letters written but even now am about 150 behind—so I don't waste much time."

No finer spirit of fraternalism could better be shown than to urge all Deltasigs, wherever they live or whether or not they know him personally, to drop him a line and express their good wishes. Address all correspondence as follows: Frederick W. Floyd, Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, Warm Springs, Georgia.—JAMES A. PERDIKIS

Jacksonville

THE HIGHLIGHT OF an eventful two months period, since my last letter for THE DELTASIG, was the appearance of Grand President John L. McKewen of Baltimore in our fair town of Jacksonville. Brother McKewen arrived on the night of Wednesday, April 3, and found enough time between trains to have dinner downtown with a few of the brothers and then a friendly chat at the home of Brother Henry Tart. Some of the fellows who were not able to attend the informal dinner were fortunate in meeting Brother McKewen later in the evening. All who met him were glad indeed to learn that we have such a gracious, "regular" fellow as Brother McKewen for our Grand President. We extend a cordial invitation to him to drop in again and spend a day or two with us.

The regular monthly meeting of February was set aside as the meeting for electing officers to conduct the club for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected: President, James T. Wilson; Vice-president, Henry G. Love; Secretary, James E. Davis, Jr.; Treasurer, G. C. Harvard. The meeting was significant also in that it marked the beginning of the second year of existence of the Jacksonville Alumni Club. Our monthly meetings have been going off in fine style, with excellent speakers who have been educational as well as very interesting. Our weekly luncheon meetings have proven to be the backbone of the club.

Tom Barrow and Henry Love made a trip to Gainesville to attend a meeting of Beta Eta Chapter on April 11. The boys down there seem to be going along in fine style. Several of our members attended the initiation banquet of Beta Eta in Gainesville on April 18. This was an enjoyable occasion and promotes a closer relationship between that active chapter and our club.

News about progressive brothers: Tom Lee Barrow has been promoted from office manager to salesman for the Burroughs Adding Machine Company. Bob Rogers has been transferred to Miami with the Southern Bell Telephone Company. Cicero Harvard is building a new home.

We are looking forward to welcoming some new brothers from Beta Eta after graduation in May. Good luck, brothers, and welcome!—WILLIAM H. PETTY, JR.

Kansas City

THE MARCH MEETING of the Kansas City Alumni Club was held at the Hyde Park Hotel the evening of March 15. A large group of active members from Alpha Beta Chapter at the University of Missouri attended, bringing several prospective members with them. The speaker of the evening was Brother John Ise of the University of Kansas, who presented a very entertaining paper on fraternities.

Wednesday, April 3, a luncheon meeting was held at the Pickwick Hotel in honor of Gig Wright.—WILLIAM A. DINKLAGE

Newark

THE MARCH MEETING of the Newark Alumni Club, held at our usual place, the Newark Athletic Club, boasted of a large representation of local Deltasigs. A lengthy and varied social program was prepared for the evening, including refreshments and pictures. Renewing again at our April meeting our policy of having a guest speaker, we were fortunate in securing for this purpose Herbert R. Bixler of Nu Chapter. Being connected with the Industrial Relations Department of Union Carbide Corporation, Brother Bixler made the most of his experiences there by delivering an address on "Industrial Relations," which proved to be interesting as well as informative. May we look forward to hearing as well as seeing you again soon, Brother Bixler.

Efforts are underway to secure J. William Schulze, Alpha, for the May meeting. Brother Schulze is director of Banking and Cashiering of the New York World's Fair and there is no doubt that his experience there will enable him to relate many interesting things to us.

The Newark Alumni Club wishes to acknowledge an error appearing in the March issue of THE DELTASIG for which it assumes full responsibility. The March report stated that Lodge Staubach was the guest speaker at the December meeting. We wish to correct that by stating that the principal speaker was Hamilton Cochran. To THE DELTASIG we submit this correction, and to Brother Cochran our apologies.

The 1940 spring formal was held at the Crestmont Club, Saturday, April 20. As usual, many alumni came out to this affair and we look back to it with enthusiasm and pleasure.

As the Newark Alumni Club prepares to end its second year as an active alumni club, we eagerly look forward to the coming year feeling confident that we shall be enjoying the fraternal success and accomplishments that we have this past year.—VICTOR J. TOMASULO

Prominent Member Killed in Airplane Crash

JAMES HARVEY ROGERS, Missouri, Sterling Professor of Economics at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut, was killed in an airplane crash at Rio de Janeiro on August 13, 1939. Before this tragic accident cut short his career, Professor Rogers had achieved international recognition as a teacher of economics and as an authority and adviser on monetary affairs. His loss will be keenly felt by his colleagues and his students, graduate and undergraduate alike, to whom he was a well-loved teacher, counsellor, and friend.

Professor Rogers was born on September 25, 1886, at Society Hill, South Carolina, the son of John Terrell and Florence Coker Rogers. He prepared for college at St. David's Academy, graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1906, and received his M.A. there in 1907. He then entered Yale where he subsequently received three degrees: the B.A. in 1909, the M.A. in 1913, and the Ph.D. in 1916. During the two years of this period he studied mathematics at the University of Chicago, and at various times he studied in Europe, notably under Vilfredo Pareto at the University of Geneva. Honorary LL.D. degrees were conferred upon him by the University of South Carolina in 1934 and the University of Missouri in 1939.

In 1917, after one year as instructor in economics at the University of Missouri, he became Statistician for the Council of National Defense, and later served overseas as first lieutenant in the Ordnance Department. He was associate professor of economics at the University of Missouri, 1919-23, and professor of economics at the University of Missouri, 1923-30. In 1930 he went to Yale as professor of political economy, and in the following year was appointed Sterling Professor of economics. Five times between 1926 and 1935 he served as lecturer at the Geneva School of International Studies.

Professor Rogers was a member of President Hoover's Committee on Recent Economic Changes, and in 1933 he was named by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as one of a committee of seventeen to investigate the economic crisis. From 1933 through 1937, he was the American Member of the Economic Council of the League of Nations. He is best known, however, for his work as financial adviser to President Roosevelt. In 1934, as personal representative of the President, he went to China, Japan, and India to study the silver situation in those countries. He was both a proponent and a discriminating critic of the New Deal. He favored the use of budgetary deficits and surpluses as a means of controlling depressions and unhealthy booms, but he insisted that the federal budget be balanced over a reasonable period of years. He opposed the N.R.A. and A.A.A., the silver purchase policy, and high tariff policies generally, because of the philosophy of artificial scarcity and forced price rises on which they were based.

As an author Brother Rogers was also well known. In 1927 he wrote Stock Speculation and the Money Market; The Process of Inflation in France, in 1929; and Harnessing the World's Money Power, of which he was the co-author with Lionel D. Edie, a member of our Indiana Chapter, in 1933; Capitalism in Crisis, 1938. He also was the author of numerous articles which appeared in various scientific journals throughout this country and abroad. Professor Rogers was initiated into Delta Sigma Pi on November 16, 1924 while at the University of Missouri.—RUSSELL JACOBS

Prominent Insurance Executive Initiated

He is president of the Seibels-Bruce & Company, of Seibels-Collins & Company, and the South Carolina Insurance Company. He is also Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the University of South Carolina and an Honorary Member of Phi Beta Kappa. He invented the vertical filing system for insurance offices now in general use throughout the country. He resides in Columbia, South Carolina, although he maintains an office at 80 Maiden Lane, New York City. He is a director of the American Reserve Insurance Company, and the Lincoln Fire Insurance Company. Delta Sigma Pi Authors

SEVERAL MEMBERS of Delta Sigma Pi are the authors of books which have appeared within the past year or two. JOHN W. RIEGEL, Miami, director of the Bureau of Industrial Relations of the University of Michigan, has written a very interesting book Salary Determination, based upon an investigation of practices in 40 selected companies, and upon discussions at five conferences on the subject held at the University of Michigan. This book is published by the University of Michigan Press.

C. H. SANDAGE, Kansas, head of the department of marketing of the School of Business Administration of Miami University, is the author of a revised edition of Advertising Theory and Practice, published by Business Publications, Inc., Chicago. This book is different from many other texts in this field in that considerable attention is given to the economic aspects of advertising, the importance of market, consumer, and product analysis as a background to the preparation of advertising copy and the selection of media, and a consideration of various methods of testing the effectiveness of actual advertisements and advertising campaigns. A loose leaf teacher's manual has also been published as an aid to teachers using this text.

JACOB B. TAYLOR, North Dakota, professor of accounting and chairman of the department of accounting of Ohio State University, is co-author with Hermann C. Miller, of a revised second edition of C. P. A. Problems and Questions in Theory and Auditing, published by the McGraw-Hill Book Company. This book is designed to meet the specific need of candidates for the C. P. A. examinations and of students requiring a thoroughgoing review of accounting principles and practice in application to practical problems. Brother Taylor is also the co-author of the text, Intermediate Accounting, likewise published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

JOHN H. MACDONALD, New York, budget officer of the National Broadcasting Co., New York City, is the author of the new book on Practical Budget Procedure, published by Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York City. Brother MacDonald has had long practical experience with budgeting problems and particular attention has been given in this book to the management aspects of budgetary control. The principles of budgeting are vividly illustrated with citations of actual procedure from the practices of well known firms in a wide variety of businesses. The book also contains 74 illustrations showing various types of budgets, schedules, and expense sheets.

HAROLD A. BAKER, Miami, assistant professor of marketing at Miami University, is the author of the new book, Principles of Retail Merchandising published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co. This text gives a thorough explanation from the buyer's standpoint of the essential steps in the process of merchandising goods in department or specialty stores. All non-essentials are eliminated in favor of a complete description of the buying, pricing, selling, and advertising of merchandise and the statistical bases by which the profitable merchandising operation is judged and controlled.

HERBERT V. PROCHNOW, Wisconsin, is the co-author with Roy O. Foulke of a new 750 page book on Practical Bank Credit, published by Prentice-Hall Inc.

CLEON O. SWAYZEE, Nebraska, associate professor in the College of Business Administration at the University of Nebraska, is the co-author of a new text book, An Introduction to Business. The book makes a general survey of the functions and practice of modern business and those economic institutions that facilitate the operation of individual business units. It presents a picture of the way in which a business operates in the whole of the economic environment.

Appointed Comptroller

MEMBERS OF THE BALTIMORE DELTA SIGMA PI BRIDGE CLUB

Baltimore Honors Dr. Perrin H. Long

ON MARCH 19, Chi Chapter joined with the Baltimore Alumni Club to observe an event of utmost significance in the community life of Baltimore—the Fifth Annual Civic Award Dinner. The setting for the occasion was furnished by the attractive Faculty Club, located on the Johns Hopkins University Campus. Here were gathered many Deltsas to pay tribute to a brilliant young doctor by whose genius millions of Americans have been spared pain, suffering and in many cases, death. Civic Awards are presented annually by Baltimore Delta Sigma Pi members to the man under 40 years of age, who is judged by the committee to have contributed the most toward the civic welfare of Baltimore City. A coupon clipping contest is run daily in the Baltimore News-Post and the award receives citywide publicity. Recipient of the 1940 award was Dr. Perrin H. Long, associated with the Johns Hopkins Medical School, whose name led a long list of candidates by a wide margin. By virtue of his distinguished work in the field of sulphur medicines, he became not only prominent locally but had national and international recognition focused upon him.

Dr. Long was born in Bryan, Ohio, on April 7, 1899. He received his education in the Bryan public schools and the University of Michigan which he entered in the fall of 1916. Early in 1917 he went overseas in the American Field Service where he spent two years as an ambulance driver in the French Army. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre in April 1918. Following his discharge from the Army, he returned to the University of Michigan where he graduated from Medical School in 1924. He was a resident physician at the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory 1924-25, an interne at Boston City Hospital 1925-27, a volunteer assistant at the Hygienic Institute, Freiburg, Germany, 1927, an assistant and associate at the Rockefeller Institute, working on infantile paralysis and other virus diseases, 1927-29. Since 1929 he has been an Associate Professor of Medicine at the Johns Hopkins Medical School.

Dr. Long's principal contributions, most widely known, are sulfapyridine for pneumonia cases and sulfanilimide which is used in the cure of spinal meningitis. A few years ago a cure of the latter would have been remarkable but today a different story is told as 50 per cent of the cases can be cured. Surgeons fear infection greatly according to Dr. Long, but there are no infectious diseases caused by bacteria that are not now under control. In the three years use of sulfanilimide an estimated ten million people have been treated with the medicine or its derivatives and only two thousand of those have lost their lives. Such is the astounding story told by a truly great doctor whose contribution to society at large is to say the least unmeasurable in terms of better health for everyone.

The principal speaker for the evening was Mr. John W. Downing, Bank Commissioner for the State of Maryland. In an engaging and informal style he spoke about commercial problems relating to his desire to bring about reforms in regard to Banking Laws, Finance Companies, Building and Loan Associations and Bank Officials in the State of Maryland. Many interesting and enlightening topics were discussed under the above subjects.

Dr. W. Mackenzie Stevens, Chi member, capable and popular Dean of the College of Commerce at the University of Maryland, performed the duties of toastmaster in admirable fashion. Grand President John McKewen gave a short talk and then presented the award, a framed scroll, to Dr. Long. Head Master, William Wessely, J. Hugh Taylor, president of the alumni club and award committee Chairman Joseph Oberle, Jr., added their words of congratulations to the winner. All words of praise belong to the committee who directed the arrangements in splendid fashion for a huge success. The committee included Edward J. Stegman, Leslie W. Baker, J. Hugh Taylor, Joseph Oberle, Jr., Melvin Sauerhammer, and William W. Wessely.—JOHN C. RAMSEN

Missouri Concludes Successful Year

ALPHA BETA CHAPTER initiated 11 pledges on April 21 in their second initiation of the year. Fourteen men were initiated in the fall. Informal initiation was held on Friday and on Saturday at 11:30 P.M. the final requirements of informal initiation were held and lasted the rest of the night. Then formal initiation was held Sunday afternoon for the following: Gayton Germane, Ernest Mickey, Edward Lupberger, Harry Miller, Nelson Thuesen, Harry McPherson, William Wilbur, Herman Miller, Stanley Lawrence, Robert Roblee, and Don Burke. The initiation banquet was held on Saturday, April 27, in St. Louis with the St. Louis Alumni Club. Most of the members drove to St. Louis in the morning in time for an industrial tour in the afternoon. Recently 20 of the members accompanied by Professor R. D. M. Bauer also went to Kansas City to meet with the Kansas City Alumni Club. About 60 Deltasigs were present for a dinner held at the Hyde Park Hotel which was followed with an interesting talk by Dr. John Ise of the economics department of the University of Kansas.

The Twelfth Annual Commerce Day was held on April 1 with Alpha Beta taking an active part through Willis Alexander, president of the Business School, and several other members. In the morning talks were made by C. R. Martin, manager of the Quaker Oats Company, St. Joseph, Missouri; and John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, New York City. The afternoon speaker was John M. Guild, special executive, Missouri State Chamber of Commerce. This was followed by an interesting film, "Trans-Pacific," furnished by the Pan-American Airways. In the evening the Commerce Day Banquet was held at the Tiger Hotel, followed by the all-school Derby Dance.

Besides the regular business meetings, Alpha Delta has had five well attended professional meetings since the second semester started. After the first semester eight B. & P. A. students were elected to Beta Gamma Sigma and four were Deltasigs: Virgil Kruehl, Herbert Aull, Joseph Brumit, and Kenneth Geisert.

March 24 marked the 17th Anniversary of the installation of Alpha Beta Chapter. This closing year has been one of the most successful years in our history. Already we have turned in 68,600 points and feel sure we will win the Chapter Efficiency Contest as we have the past three years.—KENNETH WOLZ

Mothers' and Wives' Club Sponsored by Minnesota

LAST OCTOBER the mothers and wives of the members of Alpha Epsilon Chapter met at Mrs. Stevenson's home and formed what is known as the Mothers' and Wives' Club. Mrs. Stevenson is the wife of the Dean of the Business School, who is a Deltasig, and she is also the mother of a Deltasig. It has proven to be a very successful venture, and has now become a well organized group with a definite goal. They meet twice a quarter at the chapter house for a luncheon at which time they hold their meetings. At each luncheon three ladies take charge of the refreshments and the program. Each woman pays for her lunch and the gross receipts are placed in the treasury. They have no dues, but they finance their entire club in this businesslike manner.

The present project of the club is to refurbish the kitchen and to buy new dishes displaying the coat-of-arms of Delta Sigma Pi. This is something Alpha Epsilon Chapter really needs.

We are all very proud of the enthusiasm the club has shown and realize that it is a great aid to a closely unified fraternity. We hope more chapters can find a similar way to gain the interest of their mothers.—HERBERT LILLEGARD

Alabama Holds Another Successful Commerce Day

AGAIN COMMERCE DAY was an outstanding success at the University of Alabama. In co-operation with the commerce dance committee and other professional commerce fraternities, we have succeeded in making the event one of the most outstanding on the campus calendar. The morning program was highlighted by the selection of members of Beta Gamma Sigma. Alpha Sigma is indeed proud that Jim Holland and Floyd Daniels were selected. The afternoon activities were devoted to the exhibits sponsored by the professional fraternities. Alpha Sigma Chapter sponsored exhibits of the Underwood Company and the L. J. Smith Company. To top a truly fine day, the Commerce Ball presented the inimitable music of Hal Kemp. Our Rose of Deltasig, Maurice Mauldin, was presented by our Head Master, Jerry Heimer, at the dance.

Not content to rest on our laurels, immediately following Commerce Day activities Alpha Sigma began pledging activities. Our early preparations were inaugurated by a series of smokers and professional meetings. Two smokers were held followed by a professional meeting which presented a sound film titled "Know Your Money." The attendance at the showing of the film was indicative of its merit. Formal pledging was held April 1 and seven men were pledged. Pledge training is already under way assuring us of well trained neophytes by the time of our formal initiation banquet in May.

Alpha Sigma Chapter is more fortunate than most chapters because of our early warm weather. Already we look back to the first of our spring picnics. So successful was it that at this very time of writing another one is coming up on our calendar.

In looking toward the future we find our spare moments well occupied. The annual senior trip to Birmingham is upon us. Final plans have been formulated for a joint banquet with the Birmingham Alumni Club during the course of the trip. Our delegation will approach 20 in number.

In closing I'd like to mention that Alpha Sigma Chapter is compiling a directory of alumni members under the guidance of Brother Aberle. We hope this directory will prove of mutual benefit to both undergraduates and alumni.

Creighton Starts New Era

UNDER THE LEADERSHIP of our new Head Master, Paul Boisseree, Beta Theta Chapter has started back on the road to new heights. Danny Lynch was elected Senior Warden, John Fenner, Treasurer, and Fred Glaser, Scribe. On March 29 the Alpha Delta Chapter of the University of Nebraska journeyed to Creighton to play basketball. The ensuing score was highly satisfactory, 30-27, with the high score going to the Creighton Chapter. The evening was spent showing the Nebraska boys around our city.

Several interesting tours have been arranged for the chapter by Brother McCarthy. These include the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance, the Burlington Station, a new type of office, and the Falstaff Brewery. The Deltasig dance was held in the Fontenelle Hotel, May 11, and was a most enjoyable affair.

A pledging ceremony and dinner was held at the Regis Hotel on March 18 at which time five men were pledged.

On April 1 Gig Wright was entertained at dinner at the Regis Hotel. About 36 members and pledges attended. Brother Wright gave an interesting talk about the fraternity.

Then the crowning honor of the year was bestowed upon Paul Bausch, who was elected King of the Creighton Prom. The rest of us basked in his reflected glory.—WILLIAM J. SULLIVAN

Minnesota Holds Annual Banquet

WITH SPRING QUARTER well under way, Alpha Epsilon Chapter is going strong. At the time of the writing of this letter we are putting five neophytes through the terrors of Hell Week. Our activities on the campus have already rated us approximately 40 newspaper clippings in the campus and Minneapolis newspapers this past quarter. Although we are losing 7 of our outstanding members by graduation, we have already increased our chapter membership by 15. We are planning another initiation before school is officially over for the quarter.

Outstanding in fraternity work and campus activities is our rushing chairman, Bob Moorhead. Bob received honorable mention from the intramural athletic association for the fine basketball he played for our chapter this past winter. We were very successful in interfraternity athletic competition this season. We trounced Alpha Kappa Psi in every sport and went to the semi-finals in the all-university progress basketball tournament. Edgar Kuderling supervised our intramural program and started new interests in other sports such as bowling.

Founders' Day is over, but no one will forget the fun of that night and the honor added by Toastmaster Al Johnson, an alumnus. The entire active chapter and all the pledges were present to help the alums welcome Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright of Chicago.

We have many outstanding men in our chapter of whom Delta Sigma Pi can well be proud. Scott Johnson has been chosen co-chairman of the Business School Banquet, and most of the active chapter as well as the pledge class is working on committees to make this dinner successful. Under the able guidance of Gordon Peterson, social chairman, Alpha Epsilon is planning a spring formal at the Hotel Del Otero on Lake Minnetonka, May 25. Our chapter is noted for its fine parties. Along the same line Orlando

ALPHA EPSILON CHAPTER—UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Tosdal and Gordon Peterson are both to be commended for their work on the traditional Palm Beach Jamboree during the winter quarter. Bernard Black, past head master, has been doing a fine job in helping to organize the Mothers' and Wives' Club. Our professional meetings have been extensive and very interesting due to the work of Dick Karlberg who has been in charge of this activity. Dick secured a tour of Minneapolis Honeywell Company which will be repeated again in the near future because of the large amount of interest shown in this tour by the active chapter. We have invited various classes in the Business School to be our guests on these tours. We have found that a policy of having speakers address us the evening after we tour their factory is most informative.

One of the outstanding men in our fraternity and a fellow whom we hate to see leave by graduation is Eldon Eichhorn. Besides having done a great deal for our chapter, "Ike" is president of the Business School Board, and chairman of the Senior Prom. At the Founders' Banquet he received a ring from the alumni association for having the highest scholastic average of any of the graduating seniors in the chapter this year. He is also a member of Grey Friar, senior honorary society.—DEAN DARLING

News from Baylor

ON APRIL 8, Beta Iota Chapter was honored with a visit from Brother H. G. Wright, our Grand Secretary-Treasurer. A dinner was given in his honor at the Roosevelt Hotel and he spoke to us about our chapter's problems and our own future problems which we will be confronted with. Every member seemed to enjoy the get-together very much and we hope that he will be back to see us again next year.

Brother Graves Blanton, a senior in our Business School, was awarded a check of $50 for writing a winning essay in a contest which was conducted here at Baylor. We feel sure that he was justly repaid for such excellent work.—JAMES COBB

Dormitory Built to Honor Deltasig

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO, Kansas Chapter mourned the death of one of its members, John Battenfeld, who was killed in an automobile accident. John had been a Deltasig for three years and had been active in the chapter. He was a junior in school and from Kansas City, Missouri. Then this month the school was surprised by a sudden announcement. John's parents were to give the school a dormitory for men fully furnished. Until this year the University of Kansas never had had men's dormitories so the gift was even more welcome. The building will hold 52 men and be located in a commanding position on Mount Oread between a dormitory for women and another new men's dorm being built by the alumni.

The gift will be further augmented by funds received from Flowers, Inc. Upon John's death his parents suggested that friends and relatives send their money to Flowers, Inc., instead of sending flowers. This is a new idea they had seen in operation in Sweden. These additional funds will help provide for more dormitories now planned.

Eleven men were initiated in February and a new class of sophomores will be taken this spring. This is a forward step for the Kansas Chapter, which very seldom takes underclassmen.

This month the chapter plans to attend a meeting of the Kansas City alumni. The annual industrial field tour of Kansas City will be made sometime in the future, and some social events are planned. Deltasig will also be out to win the Business School election again this year which they have done nine out of the last ten years.

The chapter made the suggestion to the Business School that it raise money this year by selling straw hats to the graduating seniors. It is the custom that they wear straws from spring till graduation, but never before have the hats been handled by the school. The idea was eagerly accepted.

Local members in the limelight are Bob McKay, who is running for president of the Student Council; J. Donaldson Morton, who is running for president of the senior class to replace the present Deltasig incumbent, Henry Schwaller; William Gray, who is one of the two juniors recently elected to Beta Gamma Sigma; William Waugh, head cheer leader just elected to Beta Gamma Sigma; Earl Remy, newly elected head of the Young Republicans.

Clarence Neal, our head master, has started the fraternity going at a pace not equalled in several years. We hope to initiate several faculty members very soon.—W. A. MANSFIELD

South Carolina Active in Campus Affairs

WITH SPRING VACATION now a matter of past history and exams and graduation just around the corner, Beta Gamma is looking forward to its spring initiation. Beta Gamma is expecting to climax a very progressive year with a successful initiation. We have 11 pledges in our fold already, and also have several bright prospects. Campus politics have been taking up a lot of our time. Roderick Turnbull cast his hat into the race for Student Body President, and Aubrey Inabinet, one of our pledges, ran for the sophomore vacancy on the Student Union Advisory Board. We are proud of the run Brother Turnbull made even though he wasn't elected. Aubrey Inabinet was elected without any opposition.

Beta Gamma is very proud of its Head Master, A. C. Lyles, Jr., who has been elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. This is indeed an honor. In addition to this, Beta Gamma had the highest scholastic average at the University of South Carolina. It easily outranked all the social fraternities and sororities on the campus. Beta Gamma is in on the sports, too. The chapter entered a basketball team in the intramural league and the boys are expected to make a fine showing under the very capable management of H. W. Inabinet.

Our professional activities have been outstanding. One of our inspection tours was conducted through a Burroughs Business Machine Exhibition. The exhibition was the same as the one at the New York World's Fair. The machines were carefully explained and demonstrated for our group. Among our speakers, we deemed it an honor to have with us Mr. Richard Shafto, general manager of Radio Station WIS, here in Columbia. Mr. Shafto gave a very interesting and educational talk on the radio business from an economic standpoint.

It seems that some of our alumni have minds that run on a very high "plane." Edison Rouse and Jack Wallace are in the U. S. Air Corps. Jack is now a second lieutenant with the Third Observation Squadron, which is temporarily stationed in Columbia.

Our social committee has planned several delightful parties which were enjoyed by alumni, actives, and pledges. They also served as rushee parties.

Beta Gamma was well represented at the annual Southern Regional Conference at Atlanta, Georgia, with a carload of brothers.

Graduation will take its toll and we will be losing a lot of swell fellows. Everyone will be missed around the chapter house for a couple of years to come. Their aid and friendship will not be forgotten and we who are left behind to carry on the work want to take this chance to say, "Thanks, and good luck to all of you."

Here's wishing all the chapters success and good luck for another year.—EUGENE GARVIN

Oklahoma Forges Ahead

BETA EPSILON CHAPTER has climaxed a very busy season with its annual spring banquet held April 4. We have initiated eleven new members: eight undergraduates, two faculty, and one honorary. This brings our undergraduate membership to a total of 34 and the faculty membership to 5.

Our professional program has been very successful, having just completed another very educational industrial tour to Oklahoma City where we visited the Oklahoma Publishing Company, the largest and most modern in the state of Oklahoma; Borden's Dairy, manufacturers of ice cream, cheese, butter, and other dairy products; the Federal Reserve Branch; and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in which we were shown all phases of the business, from the accounting departments to the technical divisions. At noon all members were treated to a dinner at the Y.M.C.A. which was furnished by the Mersfelder Agency of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company.

Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright, Frank Phillips, and Province Officer Ronald B. Shuman.

At our smokers we have had Senator Jim Nance (also a newspaper publisher) who talked on the "Individual Effort Necessary for Success in the Business World." Mr. B. M. Grotkop, sales manager of radio station KOMA of Oklahoma City, spoke on radio advertising and sales. Mr. George L. Knapp, owner of the Knapp Outdoor Advertising Agency, the largest agency of its kind in the southwest and the third largest in the country, talked on "Outdoor Advertising." And at the last meeting we had Mr. Ward J. McMullen of the National Retailers Credit Association of Oklahoma City, who showed an interesting sound film on "Credit, the Life of Business."

On the social side the chapter stands "at love" in the bridge war with the Business School faculty, but another match is scheduled for the first week in May.—JUSTIN E. VOCT

Michigan Enjoys a Full Program

THE TEMPO OF LIFE increases with finals and the end of the semester only a month and a half away—it can't be that the days are actually growing longer. Since the last writing of the DELTASIG letter, life at Xi has been crowded. Marketing and finance reports, dances, parties, sports, and the girls from Couzen's Hall have made the time pass all too quickly. And now that the snow and ice are gone, the boys are beginning to whip our softball and horseshoe teams into shape for the intramural games. Rushing is also progressing; we hope to initiate four or five this spring which will just about give us a full house.

We've had several professional meetings in the last month. The first was given by Professor Phelps of the School of Business Administration on "Our Economic Relations with South America." His talk left some doubts in our minds whether, from an economic standpoint, it is altogether feasible to court our little southern neighbors. The second professional meeting was held to hear a follow-up talk by Professor Ayten of the history department on "Our Sociologic and Historic Relations with South America."

Last month we also had a radio dance which was chaperoned by Brother and Mrs. Louis Landen and Brother and Mrs. Donald Rohn. Many alums were present and a good time was had by all. Another successful affair was the Business School's "Capitalistic Ball" which was carried out in a business motif by having the tickets made out like bank checks and the programs like stock certificates. The next big dance was the fraternity spring formal held May 4 at the Washtenaw Country Club, the music being furnished by Brother Crosman's band.

Along with this dance and ultimately finals, we have election of officers to look forward to. We take this opportunity to wish all the chapters a happy summer vacation and look forward to hearing from you all next fall.—RICHARD U. STRASSER

Miami Plans Interesting Field Trip

ONE OF THE high-lights in the year's program of professional activities is being planned for the near future. We are very fortunate in having secured the permission of the Middletown Division of the American Rolling Mill Company to allow our chapter to visit this plant sometime in the spring. Many of us are interested, directly or indirectly, in the steel industry and are glad that we are in a position to visit one of the largest producers of high-grade steel sheets in the country. The American Rolling Mill is the company which invented and developed the continuous process of rolling sheet steel, and today owns the patents on this process. ARMCO has spent several million dollars recently in rebuilding and remodeling their hot strip and slab mills in order to more than double the size of the ingot which it can handle. This new equipment will be in operation at the time of our visit. It will be of great interest to our chapter to be able to see just how the red iron ore of the Lake Superior regions is converted into sheets of steel for the fenders and bodies of our cars, in addition to it being a fine example of a very complex, mass-production industry.

On March 19 Alpha Upsilon Chapter pledged 11 men at a professional luncheon at which Dr. W. F. Cottrell, Associate Professor of Government and Sociology, spoke on "The Future of College Trained Men in Labor Economics." An initiation was held on April 18 at which time these 11 men were inducted into our chapter. Following this initiation a banquet was held in celebration of our chapter birthday.

On Friday night, March 1, the brothers of Alpha Upsilon acted as hosts at a party given for the local Com-Bus Society, a national honorary organization for women students in the School of Business. Bridge, ping-pong, and dancing to the latest recordings formed the greater part of the entertainment. Since the work of the two groups is rather parallel, the party was given both as a social function, and as a means of promoting co-operation between the two organizations. We feel that both objectives were accomplished.

By the time that the May issue of THE DELTASIG is published the school year will be nearly over and exams will be drawing near. To the new officers that will be taking over their duties we wish to offer our congratulations and the best of success in their new offices.—MERRITT GAMBILL

Wisconsin Initiates Seven

WITH THE SECOND SEMESTER half over, Psi Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi is preparing to end it with a bang. Merrill Johnson, our senior warden, has done a commendable job in the rushing activities. He has made possible the pledging of seven new members who will be initiated at our next and last initiation on May 11. We are sure these boys will make a splendid addition to our fast growing chapter. At the start of the next school term we should have at least 30 members who are all willing to make it the best year for Psi Chapter.

The annual banquet of the School of Commerce was held on Wednesday, April 10. Head Master Voll was a chairman for the affair and his work made possible a splendid affair. Psi Chapter had a special table and certainly made a wonderful showing. The boys' singing made a hit with all who attended. Our members enjoyed the annual spring formal which was held at Lake Delton, Saturday, May 4.—DARWIN R. SCHUELKE

News of Our Mother Chapter

THE DELTA SIGMA PI Old Gold and Royal Purple was brought to the fore at the 40th anniversary banquet of the establishment of the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance of New York University when Carroll Reece, an alumnus of Alpha Chapter and now U. S. Congressman from Tennessee, participated as guest of honor. About 35 members of the fraternity were present. During his busy career Brother Reece has been a soldier, instructor, and legislator. Except for an interruption of two years he has been a member of Congress since 1921. He was at the front for 210 days during the World War.

Another event of importance at Alpha was the election of chapter officers which resulted as follows: Head Master, William Durgin; Senior Warden, John O'Donnell; Junior Warden, Glen Miles; Chancellor, George Parnaby; Scribe, William Florentz; and Treasurer, Alton F. Wentworth. John O'Donnell was elected to the office of junior skull delegate.

Through the efforts of Head Master Durgin the members are enjoying an interesting discourse on the meaning of the reciprocal trade agreements concluded between the United States and the South American countries, conducted by Henry Williams, export credit manager of Richard Hudnut. The chapter held a spring formal on April 27. Mother of Pearl lockets containing a Delta Sigma Pi crest were the favors. The chapter also participated in the Violet Skull Interfraternity Round Robin dance on April 4. In February the members heard a talk on "Textiles, Clothing and Tariffs" and in March one on "Trade with South America." These both proved very interesting. Lively discussions followed both talks.—WILLIAM CARL FLORENTZ

Mississippi Elects New Officers

OUR SECOND INITIATION of the current college year was held on February 10. The new officers to represent Alpha Phi Chapter are: Head Master, William H. Allen; Senior Warden, Bill Newton; Junior Warden, Wayne Ellison; Scribe, Frank McCord; Treasurer, D. A. Noel; Historian, Edwin Bramlette; Chapter Adviser, Professor Grady Guyton. The second semester initiation, with a most impressive ceremony, leads the chapter members to believe that Alpha Phi will climb to new heights. The newly initiated men are: Dr. Roscoe Arant, professor in the School of Business, William George Baker, Fred Long Beard, Julian Argyle Campbell, Constantine J. Davis, Thomas Vernon

Donald, Wilton Dyson, Hiram Griffith, John Harry, Frank W. Hudson, John Wortham Kirk, George William Noel, David Oliver Puckett, and Edwin Tate. Immediately following the initiation a very enjoyable banquet was held, honoring the new members. Bill Allen presided over the banquet and informal talks were given by Dr. Roscoe Arant and Professor Grady Guyton, chapter adviser.

Professor Guyton stressed the value of Delta Sigma Pi, not only to the new members but to the old members as well, as a benefit upon graduation as well as on college life. He expressed a desire for members of the chapter to give talks concerning professional activities during regular meetings, to help develop a practical knowledge that will give us something to sell when we go out into the business world. Dr. Arant made a short talk and suggested that we try to promote an alumni organization in Mississippi to work with Alpha Phi Chapter for the betterment of Delta Sigma Pi.

In the last chapter news letter, which was published in the march issue of THE DELTASIC, the annual Business Day, which Delta Sigma Pi sponsors in co-operation with the faculty of the School of Commerce and Business, was mentioned. Alpha Phi has almost complete control over Business Day and we always strive to put it over in a big way. The program for Business Day was as follows: Beginning at 10:30 A.M., April 30, there was a separate forum for each of the divisions of the School of Commerce and Business, namely, accounting, banking and finance, and marketing and merchandising. These forums were under the leadership of prominent Mississippians who are connected with the above fields of business. At 11:30 the entire Business School convened for the main talk of the day which was given by Conwell S. Sykes of Clarksdale, Mississippi, who was past President of the Mississippi Bankers Association. After the meeting, the Business School students gathered in the University Cafeteria for a luncheon. There was a speaker that afternoon and the activities for the day concluded in the evening with the Commerce Day Ball.—EDWIN BRAMLETT and FRANK HUDSON

North Carolina Sponsors Placement Bureau

AT A RECENT MEETING, the Alpha Lambda Chapter at the University of North Carolina elected new officers for the coming year. The new officers are: Head Master, Dean Williams; Senior Warden, W. H. Lewis; Junior Warden, Norman Agnew; Treasurer, William Sasser; Scribe, Roger Matthews; Historian, Moyer Mendenhall; and DELTASIC Correspondent, Howard Vick. The new officers pledged themselves to improve the chapter and went on record as giving fair warning to other chapters that Alpha Lambda is going to be very much in the running for Chapter Efficiency Contest honors for the coming year.

The chapter held its first smoker of the spring pledging season on April 4. About 35 prospective pledges attended. The affair was very informal. The invited speakers for the smoker were Dr. G. T. Schwenning, member of the School of Commerce faculty; Dr. M. D. Taylor, faculty adviser to Alpha Lambda Chapter; and Herman Rhinehart, Province Officer of Delta Sigma Pi. After the smoker the prospective pledges were asked to write their opinions of Delta Sigma Pi on cards and leave the cards on the table as they left. The opinions were most favorable.

The Placement Bureau of Alpha Lambda Chapter is functioning unusually well this spring. Letters have been sent to many of the large companies of the East and Southeast asking about the possibilities of jobs for this year's senior class members and favorable replies have been returned by most of the companies. Interviews have been arranged between the seniors and representatives of some of the companies.—HOWARD C. VICK

Texas Sponsors Industrial Tour

THIS YEAR, as in the past, Beta Kappa Chapter entered a float in the annual Texas Roundup Parade. Miss Dorothy Musgrave, sweetheart of the Business Administration School; Miss Sarah Bennie Bryan and Miss Alma Widen, Roses of Deltasig, rode on the float. Misses Widen and Bryan were the Bluebonnet Belle nominees of Beta Kappa Chapter for the annual Round Up Review.

On April 17 we initiated 16 members into our chapter and we feel that with the 15 members initiated last semester, Beta Kappa will continue the progress made during the coming year.

On March 29 the annual Business Administration Banquet was held with the aid of Beta Kappa Chapter. The main attraction was the skit written and produced by members of the chapter. Stanley Scott, president of the senior class, presented Hermes, the patron saint of the school, to the junior class president. Five of the eleven members of the Business Administration Council are Deltasigs.

On April 28 the members of the chapter and their guests traveled to the hills of Wimberly, Texas, for our annual All Day Picnic, and on May 10 the chapter held a dinner-dance at the Austin Hotel.

Grand Secretary-Treasurer Gig Wright of Chicago visited the chapter on April 9 and helped "iron out" many of our current problems. Ken White of the Dallas Alumni Club held open house for Grand President McKewen of Baltimore, who was visiting in Dallas on March 23, and Brothers Frederick, Boyd, Hendrix, Martin and Morgan were present to represent Beta Kappa Chapter.

The first annual industrial tour sponsored at the University of Texas by Beta Kappa Chapter was held on Wednesday, April 24. The chapter has made industrial tours before, but this time, under the leadership of Lon Nusom, the chapter sponsored the tour for the entire Business Administration School. San Antonio, "where the sun spends the winter," was selected as the city to visit because of its nearness (80 miles) to Austin. Chartered busses left Austin at 7:30 A.M. in order to make the first observation at 9:15. The entire group spent the morning visiting the Livestock Industry—a very important industry in Texas—beginning with the livestock yards and following the processes through the packing house.

After lunch, the students then broke up into small groups according to their major plan of study. To illustrate: the finance majors visited the Alamo National Bank, the Frost National Bank and the clearing house; the transportation majors visited a railroad terminal, a warehouse, and a motor freight terminal; and the same plan was followed for accounting, insurance, retailing, wholesaling, etc. Explanation in detail of every phase of the organizations visited was given by guides that work in these organizations, and afterwards, students, professors, and employees participated in open forum discussions.

Beta Kappa has many outstanding members: four of its members have been elected to Beta Gamma Sigma, six of its members are student assistants, five of its members are class officers, seven of its members have been elected to Beta Alpha Psi, five of its members are serving on the Business Administration Council. In addition David Lewis made the highest grades in the Business Administration School this last semester, Kenneth King earned a varsity letter in basketball, Sydney Reagan is now completing his term as student president, and Basil Bell is now completing his term as president of the Longhorn Band.

Nebraska Reports

THIS IS WRITTEN APRIL 12. To some of the fellows at Lincoln this is only another day. To others it is spring and. . . . To the remainder it's one day less to graduation and one day to complete the formidable pile of work still remaining. This latter group is interested in the securing of a job. A few have jobs but the majority are still hoping.

Yes, it is spring. Joe Anderson, our head master, illustrates this quite plainly. You see Joe lost his pin, a nice new jeweled one. But he's not worried, someone else found it.

In my last letter I mentioned that our "B" basketball team seemed to be going good. Well, it was. We won in our league and got to the finals, but were pushed out of the champion's rôle by Sigma Alpha Epsilon. On March 29 we again journeyed to Omaha to play the Beta Thetas. If you won't tell I'll whisper the result very softly—they won.

The basketball game wasn't the only reason for going to Omaha. George Dinsdale, an active of two years ago, had invited us to visit the new Burlington Travel Bureau. In this wonderfully comfortable and modernistic room we heard short talks concerning the travel service offered. We also were shown pictures of western resorts. This is the second time we have been to Omaha. It must be a very long drive since the sun is always shining when the cars get back to Lincoln.

On April 3 we were honored by a visit by Gig Wright. In the afternoon he spoke before an all-university convocation; in the evening to the actives, alumni, and guests. I will wager that the application letters sent out will look different as a result of this visit.

BETA KAPPA CHAPTER—UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

We recently received from our alumni a gift that money would not very easily buy. It is an exact replica of a jeweled pin carved out of wood. The jewels are represented by small electric bulbs. The eyes light behind a composition to give an amber effect. The actual work was done by Jim Sedlacek, an active of last year.

Since our last initiation we have seven new pledges who will do a very able job of replacing the leaving seniors. Since our last letter we also have six new actives. These are Charles Backer, Tom Hoarty, Edmond Keating, Hubert Knickrehm, Boyd MacDougall, Glen Miller, and Leland Clare.

Scholastically Alpha Delta again has shown their ability. Our membership in Beta Gamma Sigma was increased to seven this year by the election of William Albrecht, Frank Pusateri, and Kenneth Egger. A little postdated information concerning honors convocation is that Neal Hadsell was the only one of the chapter and of the college to have his name included among those who are in the upper three per cent and have been on the honor roll for four or more years.

This is the last DELTASIG of this school year. With it goes the last chance to bid a farewell. So as the representative of this chapter I sincerely wish the best of everything to all our brothers during the ensuing months.—KENNETH EGGER

DePaul Steps Forward

THE ALPHA OMEGA CHAPTER at DePaul University is coming along in real style. Our first professional meeting of the second semester, Friday, March 8, was a tremendous success, being well attended by the brothers and invited guests from the student body of DePaul. The keynote of the evening was an interesting and informative talk given by one of the officials of the Department of Labor, Division of Unemployment Compensation. With interest in governmental accounting increasing at this time, it was very apropos that we obtain the services of an official who could give us valuable information as to the trials and tribulations of government accountants. His interesting comments proved to be well put, judged by the attentiveness and the eager inquiries of his audience.

April 5 was the scene of another meeting which proved to be an outstanding success and all who attended experienced a very enjoyable evening indeed. At this time the alumni undertook to fete the active members of the chapter with a tasty delicious dinner and to provide for facilities to bowl, to swim, and to do most everything in making an informal evening together entertaining and enjoyable. The success of this meeting was made possible by an alumni committee composed of three alumni, John C. Hajduk, Donald W. MacAllister, and Ray C. Glenke. The success of the evening was further evidenced by the formation of an alumni group headed by John Hajduk, whose fraternal activities have made such a club possible. Alpha Omega with active alumni support cannot do anything but progress. The valuable advice of our older brothers who are more experienced and who understand our problems more thoroughly than we, can serve us well and make for the continued growth of Alpha Omega and Delta Sigma Pi.

Alpha Omega is very proud of their Head Master, Joseph Gianatasio, who had the honor of being admitted into Blue Key, a national honorary society. Brother Gianatasio, a senior at DePaul, has been exceedingly active in the chapter. With the active support of brother Deltasigs he has led the chapter through a successful first semester.

With mid-terms gone and forgotten Alpha Omega is again concentrating to reach first place in the Chapter Efficiency Contest. With all the active members co-operating, aided by the support of the alumni, we shouldn't be surprised a bit that the end of the semester should find Alpha Omega at the top!—JACK CERNY

Kappa Entertains Grand President McKewen

KAPPA CHAPTER BEGAN putting the finishing touches on another unusually successful year with the initiation of eight new men on March 16 and 17: Frank di Christina, McCoy White, Bob Williams, Tom Luck, Luther Burroughs, Kenneth Peckman, Ben Perry, and Jube Lewis. This makes a total of 14 new men we have taken into the chapter this year, and with our third initiation scheduled for May 18 and 19, we will be well above our membership quota. In conjunction with our formal initiation of March 17, Kappa Chapter celebrated her 19th birthday with a banquet at the Atlantan Hotel. Tom Dicks proved an excellent actor in his rôle of toastmaster for the occasion, and inspiring talks were given by Grand Council Member Frank Brandes, Province Officer Howard Johnson, and Thoben Elrod, president of the alumni club, and our guest for the evening, David "Red" Barron, Kappa's first head master. All of the brothers were sincere in their belief that our bond of brotherhood was stronger when the affair was over.

Atlanta Deltasigs Welcome Grand President John L. McKewen of Baltimore

On Thursday, April 4, we were delighted with an opportunity to dine and chat with Grand President McKewen who paused briefly in Atlanta while on a business trip. Approximately 40 of Kappa's actives and alumni attended an informal luncheon held in his honor and were greatly inspired by his discussion of fraternity life. On the same afternoon, President McKewen along with several Kappa Deltasigs, journeyed to Warm Springs for a visit with Fred Floyd.

Our annual date meeting was held on Sunday, April 21, and all the brothers took advantage of this chance to bring out their wives or girls. An interesting film was in store for the nearly 100 persons who attended. Preceding the meeting, open house was held at Deltasig Lodge, and the crowd who gathered there spent an enjoyable afternoon. Came April 27, and another of Kappa's hilarious house parties. All the necessities for a good affair of this sort put in their appearance at the scene of action; good food, good weather, good entertainment, and no sleep. So successful was it, that we are already planning another.

With the advent of spring, many improvements may be noticed at Deltasig Lodge by the many brothers who enjoy themselves within its confines. Many new projects have been completed, or are nearing completion, and each adds to the comfort and pleasure of the brothers. Our famed "Pocahuntus" has been deserted in favor of our recently completed men's lavatory, and we are continuously at work on a project to beautify the grounds. Saturday night suppers are still an enjoyable pastime at the Lodge, and we intend to resume our Wednesday evening get-togethers just as soon as the final quarter of school is over. Of course, the doors are open at all times and should any out-of-town brother visit Atlanta, we would delight in showing him our proudest possession.

Kappa's thoughts are now focused on two of our most important events of the year; the annual sport dance and the election of officers. We are going about the election carefully, but feel that any man fortunate enough to be chosen a Deltasig officer will be fully qualified to keep our ship afloat. Our annual sport dance in June will complete another chapter in Kappa's history, one which we feel has been truly successful. And while we are losing many of our most diligent workers by graduation, our loss will be the alumni club's gain.—FRANK L. CARTER

Many Activities at Denver

ALPHA NU CHAPTER of Delta Sigma Pi is especially proud of its participation and progress in the intramural speech activities. During the winter quarter we entered 11 debate teams and were very successful—one of our teams going into the semi-finals. Throughout the fall quarter, the first phase of speech activities, we had a large number in various panel discussion groups. We are now well over 500 points ahead of any competing organization. The last phase is the Kinglesly Oratorical Contest to be held this quarter and we plan to enter several speakers. These various phases of speech constitute the Lowell Thomas Speech Contest at Denver University. The winner will be awarded the Lowell Thomas Speech Trophy. The boys are interested in seeing that the trophy rests in the club rooms of Alpha Nu, and with that spirit behind us we can't help but carry away the trophy.

Deltasigs, happy that winter quarter finals were over, closed a very successful quarter by celebrating St. Patrick's Day with a special "green" dance, March 10. The dance was our annual winter dance and was held in the ballroom of the Olin Hotel; it was a sport affair and the music was furnished in typical old Irish style. A large crowd attended and, needless to say, everyone had a jolly time.

Edward Perry has made us quite proud of him by being tapped into the national honorary scholastic fraternity of Beta Gamma Sigma. This present addition makes Alpha Nu boast of having three of our brothers in this fraternity: William Morey, president; Robert Wasley, vice-president; and Edward Perry.

Formal pledging ceremony was held April 10 and on May 5 we initiated 10 men. The annual spring formal is to be held at Lakewood Country Club, May 25. The affair is to be a formal dinner dance and has always been one of the highlights of the activities of Alpha Nu. With this major social activity Alpha Nu will close its activities for the school year.—CHARLES W. MILLER

Minnesota Annual Palm Beach Party

REALIZING THAT EVERY FRATERNITY can give record parties and sleigh rides, Alpha Epsilon has a tradition to accompany the winter season. Each year in February a Palm Beach Jamboree is held at the chapter house. In Minneapolis where the winters are cold, the party has a great significance. It is a grand feeling to discard your heavy dull suit for a colorful summer outfit. I will give you an idea of the party we had this winter.

Because the temperature was zero, I was pretty cold before arriving at the chapter house with my date. The cold left me the moment I entered and saw the entire house decorated in a tropical mood by palm trees, beach chairs, etc. The walls and ceiling were covered with bamboo. Colorful umbrellas graced the parlor and a huge ship on a field of blue stood before the large window in the living room while flags hung from the ceiling.

A picture was taken of all the actives and pledges in their typical costumes. Dancing furnished most of the entertainment, and many of us spent time at the "coke bar." The evening was climaxed by a bathing beauty contest in which two pledges challenged two actives. We all took seats in the living room and laughed beyond endurance while the judges chose the "queen of queens." The contest was won by a pledge.

As summer draws near, I find it hard to think of winter. I still know our Palm Beach Jamboree will be a pleasant interlude when winter once again comes with its cold and snow.—FRED HAY

PALM BEACH PARTY OF OUR MINNESOTA CHAPTER

Utah Has a Birthday Party

A SPRING FORMAL dance to celebrate the birthday of our chapter was held on April 20 to honor all alumni members. The Rose of Deltasig was the guest of honor, the girl chosen having been previously announced and presented to the entire university at an assembly on April 19. Patrons at the dance were Dean Beal of the School of Business and Professor Mark H. Greene.

A stag party was held at the home of Alumnus Keate Cook on April 11, where the brothers had an excellent time trying their hand at Michigan poker, pinochle, and pool. We all had a better chance to get acquainted with new members, George Hargraves, Dick Blackhurst, and Croft Smith, who were initiated on April 2. The initiation was followed by the traditional banquet, after which some of the members went bowling. Several of the alumni, Bud Kingdon, Dave Fullmer, Frank Taylor, Ray Bergman, and Jim Conelosos, were present to offer assistance and advice.

At a professional meeting on March 1 we heard Herald Carlston of the University Placement Bureau give advice on "Getting a Job" which was of special interest to our graduating members who include Mervin Jones, Allen Billeter, Kimball Richmond, Fred McEntire, George Hargraves, and Robert Odor.

An Award Banquet will be held in a few weeks to award the Scholarship Key to Thomas War. We also hope to have another initiation on May 15 which will almost finish our activities for this year.—ROBERT ODOR

Indiana Sponsors Many Activities

SPRING INITIATION was held the last week of April by Alpha Pi at Indiana University. The first week in May, Delta Sigma Pi sponsored a Merchandising and Advertising tour to Indianapolis and we visited business houses that were of interest to students in these concentrations.

One of the principal speakers at the Real Estate Educational Conference held at Indiana on April 30 was Mr. H. O. Walther. Mr. Walther is a real estate appraiser of Chicago and is past Grand President of Delta Sigma Pi, and past president of the Chicago Alumni Club. On April 24 the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce of the School of Business sponsored the Business Careers Conference. A luncheon was held jointly by Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi. The speaker at the luncheon was Robert K. Burns, Director of Research Science Associates of Chicago.

The new Business building which will be ready by next semester will contain an office where all of the student organizations will have desks and places for locked files. The general lounge of the building is being furnished jointly by university funds and by the organizations. A kitchenette is included in the plans so that it will be possible to hold luncheons and smokers in the building. Rooms are arranged so that there will be places for meetings and committee discussion groups. The building will house the offices of the School of Business and the economics department. A large auditorium, classrooms, and offices for the various bureaus take up the major portion of the space in the structure.

On the night of April 18, Professor Edward E. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards were hosts to the active chapter and new pledges at a steak fry at one of the local parks. A similar affair was held last spring and the chapter enjoyed this outing as much as the last.

The chapter will lose 19 men by graduation this spring: Rembrandt Hiller, William Hauschild, Charles Harrison, Robert Simmons, William Jennings, Charles Hedge, William Hyde, Howard Blankertz, Robert Bottin, Charles Baillie, Jerry Torrance, Alfred Teegarden, George Newlin, Evan Stiers, William Carmichael, Wallace Billman, and Howard Kessler. Thomas Lindahl graduated at mid-year and James Atkinson is now in law school at Indiana. Alpha Pi boasts a 1.9 scholastic average for last semester, just short of a B. Four members, John Jay, George Newlin, Evan Stiers, and Charles Baillie, have been initiated into Beta Gamma Sigma.

Six men are members of Blue Key: Philip Cooper, John Jay, William Keck, Charles Baillie, Rembrandt Hiller, and Evan Stiers constitute this group. Robert Gates, Marvin Miller, and John Jay are members of the Board of Directors of the Indiana Union for next year. Rembrandt Hiller is a retiring member.

Delta Sigma Pi swept the field of swimming managers this year with Rembrandt Hiller, senior; Philip Cooper, junior; and Robert Gates, and Robert Robb, sophomores. Evan Stiers is the retiring senior basketball manager and Jack Fairchild is junior track manager this year. Howard Blankertz is on the university tennis squad and has just completed his solo flight under the CAA training program for private pilot license. Charles Baillie is a member of the track team for which Indiana is so famous.

The position of associate business manager of the Arbutus (yearbook) has been held by Marvin Miller. Delta Sigma Pi will be represented by Philip Cooper next year on the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce; Evan Stiers was president of this group for the past year.

Basketball proved to be too tough for Alpha Kappa Psi as Delta Sigma Pi took the game in easy style, 34-19. A baseball game is scheduled soon. Maybe they think the third time is the charm for they took a lacing in touch football last fall, 13-0.

Alpha Pi wishes good luck to all graduating seniors this June as they enter the business world.—CHARLES L. HEDGE

Beta Nu's Headlines

ONLY SIX WEEKS are remaining of our school semester but members at Beta Nu Chapter really will have these weeks crowded with activities at 3902 Spruce. Our final initiation of new members will take place sometime in May; the initiation dinner and dance will be held immediately following these ceremonies. Mr. Krell, Superintendent of Public Schools at Eddystone, Pennsylvania, will return for a second lecture at our monthly professional meeting; our regular tours of outstanding business establishments will continue and finally, what is usually considered the grand finale of our school year, Beta Nu's spring formal, will be held at Bala Country Club.

Kenneth Voorhies has had the honor of being elected to the Night Watch Society of the Wharton Evening School. Brother Voorhies certainly deserves this honor after his years of fine scholastic and campus activities. This adds another to the many Beta Nus who have received the same honor in past years.

A rather unique and successful professional meeting was held on March 29. All present had the pleasure of attending the first "talkie" given at the fraternity house. Palmer Lippincott was responsible for the evening's enjoyment as the film was the property of his advertising firm. The audience was surprised at the clearness of the sound equipment as it was on a par with that of most movie houses.

All Deltasigs will be glad to hear our latest news from Fred W. Floyd, who is fighting an attack of infantile paralysis down in Warm Springs, Georgia. Fred's last letter was a heartening one; his condition is improving and his courage is as abundant as ever. Many Deltasigs have traveled to Warm Springs to see Fred and since this fact was practically the theme of his letter, we all know he appreciates it. May we all join in an effort to help Brother Floyd on his way back to health.—CHARLES G. BARRON

Colorado Elects Officers

AT THE BEGINNING of spring quarter, Alpha Rho Chapter held elections, and the results were as follows: Head Master, Richard Vertrees; Senior Warden, Eric Boorman; Treasurer, Harry McGrayel, and Scribe, William Sackmann. This spring election was the result of a new policy whereby the new officers can receive the aid and information of the present officers and therefore will be in a better position at the start of school next fall.

The annual School of Business trip was held during spring vacation. Many of the Alpha Rho Chapter attended as well as members from the chapter at the University of Denver. The trip was to Detroit this year, and the inspection of the large industries was one of the main features of it.

Donald Thurman, our former Head Master, was a member of the Colorado basketball team that won the invitation tournament in New York City. Donald was an excellent player and was a unanimous choice for all-conference guard. He also received mention on several All-American teams.

Spring rushing is in progress and pledging will take place in a few weeks.—ROBERT G. BONHAM

Southern Chapters Hold Regional Convention

DELEGATES FROM FIVE southern chapters of Delta Sigma Pi met April 13 and 14 at Kappa Chapter's Deltasig Lodge for their second annual Southern Regional Convention. Represented were members from the Universities of Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, and Georgia Evening College. Arriving Friday night and Saturday morning, the delegates were entertained by the hosts, Kappa Chapter, prior to the business session on Sunday. On Saturday afternoon the group made a tour of the Deltasig Lodge grounds, ending up at the athletic field where they engaged in football and softball. At nightfall, but not before several of the visiting brothers had taken a swim in the cold lake, the group gathered at the Lodge for ping pong, dancing, and get-togethers before dinner. After a long awaited meal, a dance was held in honor of the visitors, and dates were provided for all who requested them.

Gig Wright, Grand Secretary-Treasurer, Howard Johnson, Province Director, and Frank Brandes, member of the Grand Council, conducted the business meeting on Sunday morning. All phases of a fraternity that make for more efficient operation were discussed fully as Brother Wright outlined the requirements of each division of the Chapter Efficiency Contest. He stated, "The Efficiency Contest is not a means of checking up on each chapter, but a means of getting more efficiency out of each chapter by providing a goal to work toward."

The delegation voted to make the regional meetings annual affairs, and it was suggested that there was a possibility that the next meeting would be held in conjunction with Kappa Chapter's 20th birthday celebration next year.—FRANK L. CARTER

Marquette Celebrates Twentieth Anniversary

HELL WEEK ENDED on Sunday, March 14, for the Deltasigs at Marquette with an initiation banquet at the Ambassador Hotel. After being put through their paces during the preceding days, Charles Barney, Richard Brye, Howard Burns, Eugene Farley, Paul Ireland, Wallace Schaeetze, Charles Shedd, and James Woodward, were welcomed into the fraternity. With these activities over, all the active members are settling down to their work, counting the weeks, and looking forward to the impending Union Board elections, and the spring dinner-dance.

Our annual Founders' Day banquet was held at the Westmoor Country Club on May 4, 1940. At this time Delta Chapter celebrated the 20th anniversary of its founding.

The brothers are campaigning to elect their candidate, John Jans, Union Board representative, when the election is held May 26. The success of this campaign will give the chapter two members on the board. Brother Ray Apolskis was elected last year.

Second semester activities will be climaxed by Delta Chapter's formal dinner-dance to be held at the Westmoor Country Club on June 8. All the members look toward this evening with pleasure. Alumni and actives get together for an evening of dancing and meeting old friends.

Temple Holds Traditional Annual Formal Dinner-Dance

ON MAY 11 OMEGA CHAPTER held its annual spring dinner-dance at the Lulu Temple Country Club. This gala affair climaxed a successful fraternity year. Many of the alumni brothers were present and old friendships were revived. Several of the former celebrities of the chapter gave excellent talks. Head Master Harry P. Day extended the opening greetings to the brothers and acted as the toastmaster for the after-dinner festivities. Grand President and Mrs. McKewen of Baltimore were present. Five new members have been added to the rolls after a constructive goat period directed by J. William Oyler. Donald McArt, James Morris, Dewey Roberts, George Spencer, and Harry Davis are the new group of members. We are sure every one of them will make a fine brother. Delta Sigma Pi co-operated with the other fraternities and sororities on the campus in a celebration of Greek Week-end held on April 19 and 20. Dinners, dances and open houses were the main features of the successful program.

John McIntosh and Dewey Roberts won recognition for the Deltasigs by winning Student Commission offices in the class elections. As we cram with courage for the coming final exams, the thought of the approaching summer vacation is very consoling. However, we view the ending of the school semester with a downcast attitude as we lose many fine brothers through graduation. John P. Rice, J. William Oyler, R. Stanley Doebler, John McVeigh (editor of the yearbook, The Templar), Len "Speed" Roberts, and George Wright are the members who will leave the portals of Delta-sig this June after receiving their diplomas.

On June 6 Omega Chapter will close the fraternal books for the school year of 1939-40 after completing another colorful semester.—CHARLES E. COOPER, JR.

News from Southern California

CURRENT ACTIVITIES ON THE Southern California campus are making way for the advent of spring and summer. With ten week exams and Easter vacation a thing of the past, Deltasigs are settling down to a concentrated drive on "old man study." First activity of the spring season was the semi-annual spring formal, held this year at the Miramar Beach Hotel in Santa Monica. Thirty-five couples spent the afternoon rollicking in the warm waters of the Pacific and then spent the evening dining and dancing.

May 3 will mark the annual Mothers' and Fathers' Banquet, sponsored by the Mothers' Club of Phi Chapter. Mrs. Rose Wylie, president of the group, will be in charge of arrangements for the affair. Pledges will furnish entertainment and be on hand to perform any extra activities desired by the mothers.

The Trojan Squires, honorary sophomore group on campus, hold the spotlight for four anxious applicants for Squirehood. One active, Charles Stortz, and three pledges, Carl Miller, Ken Morse, and Clark Tardy, will vie for an appointment to this body. The Trojan Knights, a junior and senior honorary, will decide their applications this month. Only eligible applicant this year will be Bob Merson, head master and present Knight.

In the field of sports, several brothers have been active in both senior and freshman activities: Bob Dobbs has held a permanent berth on the freshman first team, playing consistently in all scheduled games. Tom Wylie, house manager, has been active on the Trojan varsity gym team. A softball team has been organized and it will compete in interfraternity competition in May.

Robert Wagner was last month appointed membership chairman of the Trojan Y.M.C.A. Wagner, who has been active in "Y" activities on campus for some time, was also named to the advisory board of that group.

The recent Junior Prom, held in March, saw the appointment of Bob Merson as ticket chairman for the affair. He was active in selecting the bids, figuring costs, and assisting the general committee in arranging the most popular dance held in years.

The College of Commerce will honor students of that school May 2 when the annual commerce dinner is presented by the school. Commerce majors in Phi Chapter will actively participate in arranging the affair, and will be on hand to make the announcement of awards. At this date, the winner of the Delta Sigma Pi Scholarship Key has not been determined, but it will be awarded at the banquet to the outstanding commerce major. John Roth, scholarship chairman, will arrange with Dean Reid L. McClung to present the award.—WILLIAM D. NIETFIELD

Louisiana State Holds Initiation and Banquet

BETA ZETA CHAPTER of the Louisiana State University held its second initiation of the current school year on Thursday, April 11. At that time seven new members were added to the chapter roll. Three are members of the College of Commerce faculty: Professors C. T. Crumrine, B. R. Risinger, and S. A. Caldwell. Commerce students initiated were Sanders Cazedessus, Douglas Mitchell, Morris Daigle, and Martin Broderick, Jr. At the time of pledging the chapter gave a smoker at the home of Dr. Stanley Preston, a member deeply interested in the affairs of the chapter. On the evening of April 11 a banquet was held in honor of the new members. Beta Zeta Chapter was especially fortunate in having Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright as our guest at the initiation. It is the sincere hope of this chapter that Brother Wright will not limit his visits to initiations but will call on us whenever he has the opportunity to do so.

The professional program committee has been very active this past month. Dr. Daniel Borth, university auditor, gave an instructive lecture on the work of his department. On another occasion the chapter joined with the Society for the Advancement of Management in securing a prominent lecturer.

Of special significance is the work of the chapter in contacting its alumni. It is the desire of Beta Zeta that its old members should not lose contact with the fraternity. A list has been compiled of all members and they will be constantly informed of our activities.

Another task recently undertaken is that of instituting some special event which will in time become an annual affair sponsored by the chapter. The members have agreed upon a banquet to be open to the entire College of Commerce, both faculty and students. In this way the chapter feels that it will be contributing something to the tradition of the college. The plan has met with the approval of Dr. James B. Trant, Dean of the College.

The first issue of Volume 2 of the Beta Zeta Bulletin came out in March. John Burton is the man responsible for this interesting number. Dr. Karl D. Reyer was named faculty adviser of the chapter at a recent meeting. Dr. Reyer has always contributed his time and effort to the chapter and the members have, in some degree, recognized his ability by appointing him to this position. His first contact with Delta Sigma Pi was at the Ohio State University where he was an active member of Nu Chapter. It's a rare occasion when Dr. Reyer isn't present at a chapter meeting.—A. HAMILTON MCMAN

Ohio State Prominent in Campus Activities

NU CHAPTER IS RIDING on a crest of scholarship never before equaled in the chapter's history. When winter quarter grades came through there was a large number of the boys above the 3. mark and three or four in the 3.5 or better group. The chapter average was well above 2.5. And, speaking of grades, Ed Ewing, rushing chairman, has turned in a great job of pledging this spring. He has a fine group of boys, every one of whom has a cumulative of 2.4 or better.

Social activities are going ahead at a fine clip with several dances and our big spring formal on May 3. The formal was held at the Brookside Country Club with Will Maurot and his orchestra—a great place, a great band, and a great time was had by all of the actives, pledges, alumni, and friends present.

Bill Tufford, new professional meeting chairman, has taken a great interest in this important angle of our activities and our semi-weekly professional meetings are being unusually well attended. Professor Hagerty, one of the founders of the College of Commerce at Ohio State, former dean of that college, and also one of the founders of our own Nu Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, spoke to us about the early history of our chapter and the school. Brother Hagerty also taught the first marketing class in the world and has taught every commerce course except accounting at one time or another.

With the baseball season here, we are once again on the trail of that much coveted cup for the intramural championship. We beat Theta Tau by a lopsided score of 20-8 in our first test. With a Mothers' Day party planned for some time in May, Allen Meyer, our combination faculty adviser and song leader, is busy getting our voices into shape for a group of Mothers' Day songs to be presented at that time.

Forrest Hutslar, last year's prexy, is using his spare time these days to make our monthly paper, Nu's Paper, bigger and better than ever while Will Durfey heaps distinction upon the chapter and himself as the new vice-president of the university Y.M.C.A.

And so Nu moves on and forward.—GORDON BACH

Northwestern Plans for the Future

THE BROTHERS OF ZETA CHAPTER are contemplating the adoption of a four-point program which will facilitate the expansion and influence of Delta Sigma Pi on Northwestern's Evanston campus. The first point—the affiliation of the chapter with the Northwestern Interfraternity Council—has been approved and acted upon by the members. The remaining points are as yet without chapter decision. Point two: The acceptance of pre-commerce freshmen and sophomores by the chapter. Up to the present time, only junior and senior commerce and economics students have been eligible for membership. Point three: The abandonment of our present house for a larger residence at a reasonable rental, until such time as proposal four becomes a reality. Point 4: the enactment of an amendment to the chapter by-laws allowing a note not to exceed $100, payable by each active and all future brothers within five years after graduation to form the basis of a $10,000 house fund with the end in view of providing the down-payment on a $40,000 fraternity house to be built by the university before 1951.

All of the 346 Zeta alumni will be solicited for their viewpoints and suggestions on these proposals, and it is hoped by the actives that the "machine" can be set in motion within a short time. At a recent meeting, the office of alumni secretary was created to enable one brother to send monthly reports to each Zeta alumnus and to maintain a close affiliation between actives and alumni. Owen G. Leach was elected to the position.

Zeta Chapter has done unusually well this year in intramural sports. Completely monopolizing this year's intramural swim meet, the Deltasig team led by Warren Wagner romped off with twice as many points as their nearest rival. Wagner himself could have handled all opposing fraternities, for he earned 13 points, exceeding the total number of points made by the second place winners. He came through with firsts in the 60 yard backstroke and the 40 yard backstroke, and second in the 60 yard medley to win the individual high point trophy. Bill Stull, swimming the breaststroke in great style, took first in both the 40 and 60 yard events, and a fourth in the 40 yard free style. Forrest McMahon, third member of the team, placed second in the 40 yard backstroke and fourth in the 60 yard medley. In all, the boys won points in six out of the eight events.

We are also mighty proud of our beautiful gold plated basketball trophy which was earned when the Deltasigs took first place in the League V basketball race. The boys are entering intramural baseball, golf, tennis, and horseshoes this spring, and other new trophies may soon grace the mantelpiece at the house.

Two smokers were held last month. A speaker from Investors' Syndicate was our guest at the first dinner, and William Belding's father spoke on "Investment Banking Today" at the second. Social Chairman George Fenimore has planned a spring formal dinner dance to be held at the Briargate Country Club in Glenview on Saturday, May 18.

Zeta's last 1939-40 initiation will be held May 19. Initiation should increase the chapter to 32 and it is very probable that our pledge quota will be filled. At the March initiation, Warren Wagner, Homer Murphy, and Don Ketcham became brother Deltasigs.—EARL WARNER

Georgetown News

ON THE STARLIT NIGHT of April 6, Mu Chapter turned out as one indivisible unit to attend the annual School of Foreign Service Prom. In so doing they gave their undivided support to four of their illustrious brothers, George Jennings, Joe Cruden, Francis Van Herpe, and Harry Smith, who, as presidents of their respective classes in the School of Foreign Service, are charged with making or breaking school affairs. In accordance with its never-failing custom, in the wee small hours following the Prom, the group returned to a gay breakfast and song-fest at the chapter house.

On the following night, April 7, Mu threw a "survival of the fittest party," the idea of this dance being that those who were fortunate enough to survive the Prom could boast their strength by attending the dance. It was evident that the great majority had survived, and the party was a great success. Ed Hyland showed movies which he had taken of Paris, Holland, and South America. The chapter enjoyed the attendance of George Ryon, John McKenna, and Jack Beach, who had traveled cross-country to attend both the Prom and the revival.

Mu Chapter has had its serious side as well as its hilarious side, however. Ten initiates began their goating period shortly before Easter vacation. In accordance with the precedent established in 1938, the initiates are being schooled in the general business of the fraternity and in the duties of the chapter officers, in addition to fulfilling their regular quota of work. Their formal initiation was held on April 27. That night they attended a banquet given by the chapter in honor of their election to brotherhood, and the chapter spring formal was held following this initiation banquet. This gala evening was followed on the next afternoon by a tea dance and cocktail party at the chapter house.

As for the remainder of the year, as yet not experienced, the chapter has several interesting projects already under way. It has planned a sailing party for May 4 which promises to be great fun. The boys and girls will charter a boat and leave from Annapolis, Maryland, to enjoy a full day of wining, dining, and dancing aboard ship. On a more scholarly side, that of prospective professional meetings, Mu intends to shine with addresses by various foreign diplomatic and consular agents here in Washington. This program was temporarily nipped in the bud by North Sea developments but is expected to flower as planned before the school year expires.—JAMES H. ENNIS

Newark Holds Spring Dance

SOME CAME EARLY; some came late; no one, however, forgot the date! The pillars of the Crestmount Country Club really rocked on the night of April 20 when a happy gathering of Deltasigs was particularly proud of the sizeable turnout of alumni and faculty members because it had proved once again that an affair is well worth coming to, if it is signed—Deltasig.

We enjoyed an evening of sport and conviviality on March 30 when Beta Omicron joined in a round-robin basketball tournament with the other campus fraternities followed by open house in all fraternity quarters. It wasn't so strange, either, that the Deltasig chapter house enjoyed the largest throng, thanks again to that great team of decorative and culinary perfectionists—the Brothers Koribanics.

In most quarters, conversation centers on war, but here at Beta Omicron all talk is swinging around that great dramatic production, When the Wind Blew, which is being written, cut, reshaped and censored by Brothers King, Miners, McConnell, and McGlynn. Hoping to be the first active chapter to attempt to compete with the Mask and Wig Show or the Triangle Club, these supershowmen promise a world premiere on or about June 1. The footlights will come on in the Mummies Garrett in the University Building and all Deltasigs are assured popular prices will prevail. (Rumors have it that burlesque is definitely not on the way out.)

The chapter and Delta Sigma Pi were honored when Sammy Kaye of Swing and Sway fame recently dedicated a song, on his regular one-hour coast-to-coast Saturday program over the Mutual System, to the Beta Omicron Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at the University of Newark. The song was the "Rose of Deltasig." The occasion was the formal initiation of new men and the dedication highlighted a grand evening of entertainment.

Junior Warden William Miners, and Treasurer H. Brezin issue an earnest appeal to all active chapters who have had any experience in settling tenant-landlord problems, favorable or otherwise, to please airmail any advice they can give. The mental and physical happiness of Beta Omicron is at stake.

One of the two particularly interesting professional meetings was addressed by Warren C. King of Whitman & Company, New York, father of Chancellor Garrison King, who spoke on "Textiles in the Industrial Field." He was exceptionally well versed in his topic since he has spent the better part of 40 years in textiles. The other brought into our midst, Roy Eldridge, manager of the Newark Athletic Club, who told us of the trials and tribulations of "Hotel and Club Management." Mr. Eldridge stressed the point that it isn't the college education that counts as much as it is the use one puts it to.

With Brother McGlynn it's a case of drive! drive! drive! for that coveted 100,000 points in the Chapter Efficiency Contest and at the rate the chapter's enthusiasm has been running—well, we understand, you're all from Missouri.

News from Georgia

PI CHAPTER OF the University of Georgia is in the home stretch for the year and already we have something planned for most all week-ends left. On February 19 we held our second quarter initiation at which time the following four were initiated: Theodore Balk, Bob Hall, Ray Braddock, and Marion Dasher. The next week-end we had a barbecue supper for the new members. It was held several miles out of town at a place just suited for the occasion. All of the members brought dates and after supper we had an informal dance.

Our chapter has held several good professional meetings this quarter. On one occasion three alumni from Kappa Chapter of Atlanta, including Frank Brandes, who is a member of the Grand Council, came over and led a round table discussion with us. They made some very good suggestions concerning the Chapter Efficiency Contest.

Our Deltasig Penthouse underwent spring cleaning at the beginning of this quarter. Led by Head Master Pearson and Treasurer Hickman, the Penthouse furniture was recovered and painted. And the room also received a new radio and several tables.

Among those attending the Southeastern Conference held at Deltasig Lodge of Kappa Chapter the week-end of April 13 and 14 were: Robert Harlow, Ray Braddock, Everett McWhorter, Sam Glenn, Tom Chambers, Theodore Balk, and Owen Pearson. Kappa boys were very nice to get blind dates for the Pi boys but our boys say from now on they are carrying their own Georgia Peaches! Everyone had a good time at the dance on Saturday night. On Sunday morning Gig Wright discussed the Chapter Efficiency Contest and offered suggestions as to how we could improve in our standings.

The meeting had a large attendance and was supervised by Howard Johnson of Kappa Chapter. We wish to congratulate the Kappa men for planning such a swell week-end. Everybody had a good time and we think it was very beneficial. And we are looking forward to bigger and better week-ends of the same sort in the future.—OWEN PEARSON
